HOUSE-SENATE IN BATTLE ON DRY FUND BILL

ROGERS SUGGESTS EINSTEIN LAUGHS AT OUR EXPENSE

(Special To The News)
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—This Einstein has proven a great comfort to us that always knew we didn't know much. He has shown us that the fellow that thought he was smart is just as dumb as we are.

The senate investigates everything; it would be worth the money to see 'em light on this. Still I guess they would do about as well as they do on some other things.

It's printed in the papers here, after coming over by radiograph. It's either a laundry slip or a night club bill. I think this Einstein is just having a quiet laugh at the world's expense.

Yours,
WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Let those who will mean for the sunny southland! Let them linger under the hissing rustling of the palm! Not for Pa New, at the present moment at least. Bracing winds, frost bitten noses and tingling ears bring about a spirit of camaraderie that cannot be equalled in the summer time. Everyone is cheery, contrary to the popular notion. And everyone is planning at everyone's nose and ears, just to see if they are as red as one imagines his own nose and ears to be.

A word of commendation from the field secretary of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis society means something, and for the sterling work that they have been doing throughout the past years, often hampered by lack of cap- tures, the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society deserves all the credit given to it by David Bruner of Harrisburg, who is in New Castle today. He believes in the work, and he is enthusiastic about the efforts being made by the local society.

Soon it will again be time for the student soldiers to register for the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Those from New Castle who intend to take advantage of the government's offer this summer should remember that early registry is half the battle. Captain Melvin L. Craig is in charge of the registration for the district and those who intend to go would do well to get in touch with him soon.

Then there is the story of the local dowager, married again, who has just returned from her honeymoon. When she returned she finds that her son has a malady and now she is under quarantine with her husband. Two honeymoons—all at once!

Street fire alarm boxes may at some future date be things of the past. In the yearly report made recently by Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn it was stated that over twice as many alarms were telephoned into the firemen than were sent in by the street boxes.

Paul Edgar Garber of R. D. 7, will be nine years of age on Grand Hog day. He thereby gains membership in the Pa New club.

Go over to the extension office on Croton avenue and take a peep on the gigantic cup which the local association of wool growers won at the state farm products show at Harrisburg. The cup is silver, stands way over a foot, yes, way over, high and is a big load for a half grown boy. It is a cup to be proud of.

Well, folks, don't forget the checker championship. Seems to Pa New that there should be somebody in the city who can play six or eight games at one crack. These are the boys who are tepid and do a wicked jump. They are also the games where moves are 10 minutes apart. Pa New believes that the city league should disqualify players if they don't move in less than eight minutes.

Katy Galois of the Margaret Henry Home is another little member of Pa New's woodchuck birthday club. She will be six years old Saturday. Monday was a big day in the little girl's life for it was then that she went to school for the first time.

Elwyn Lee of 717 E. Main street, is planning to celebrate her seventh birthday Saturday, as is Jess "Buddy" Badger, of 937 Adams street, who will

Bill Returned To Senate With Notice That House Favors
Joint Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Faced with the possibility of a deadlock between Senate and House over the $24,000,000 additional prohibition enforcement fund amendment, which might prevent passage of the urgent deficiency bill, administration leaders today launched a movement to bring about an agreement.

The bill was returned to the Senate by the House today with notice that the latter body had rejected the Senate amendments and requested a conference.

Rejected by House
Not only were predictions made that the conference committees would find difficulty in reaching an agreement, but there was a possibility that one or both houses might reject any proposal made.

The Senate displayed a strong sentiment for the $24,000,000 amendment by voting 60 to 37 to insert in the deficiency measure, while the House yesterday rejected it by the crushing vote of 240 to 141.

With the short session rapidly nearing its end a filibustering minority could prevent the passage of the bill, which carries $123,000,000 urgently needed by government departments, $75,000,000 of which is to pay tax refund awards. These awards bear interest.

Administration leaders had poignant memories of the failure of the second deficiency bill two years ago when a filibuster over the Reed "slush fund" committee prevented its passage in the Senate. Extraordinary financial remedies were called in to effect by President Coolidge to keep some government departments in operation.

No Compromise
Thus far there has been little disposition on either side to seek a compromise, and administration members of the House conferees were determined to win the Senate conference committee over to a reversal of the Senate's position.

Rep. Wood (R.) of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on the deficiency bill, and Rep. Cranston (R.) of Michigan, both leaders in the fight against the amendment, were named to the House conference committee, along with Rep. Byrnes (D.) of Tennessee, who supported it.

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 1.—With the taste of victory to spur him on, President-elect Hoover today headed into the Gulf Stream hoping for another long tussle with a six foot sailfish.

He bears the marks of the typical deep sea fisherman. His hands are blistered and out. His face, burned almost scarlet by the tropical sun, is peeling and giving him considerable pain. Nevertheless with the true sportsman's instinct, there was no thought of turning back to the shade and comfort of his Belle Isle retreat.

Tires Of "Being Useless" Makes Effort At Suicide

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—"Tired of being useless," Clark F. Huhn, 28, scion of a wealthy and socially prominent family, shot himself in the chest early today in an anteroom of a restaurant here. He was taken to a hospital in a dying condition.

In a farewell note the social register and artist commented upon the "futility of life" and stated he was "tired of being useless." It is believed he was disappointed because his paintings failed to gain recognition.

Wealth and social position, he said in the note, meant nothing to him. He graduated from Yale last year.

Young Huhn's grandfather, George A. Huhn, amassed a large fortune as a member of Huhn, Eddy & Co., Philadelphia banking house, but most of it was wiped out when the institution crashed in 1924.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 1.—Eugene Cecil, of McKeesport, Pa., air mail flier on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland route, was found dead in the cockpit of his plane eight miles south of here early today. His Travelair biplane was wrecked.

The tragedy was discovered by searchers who put out from here early this morning after an unidentified plane had been reported seen flying low over the surrounding country. Seven sacks of air mail were found intact.

Attempted To Land
Cecil was first reported seen in and around Uniontown, Pa., late last night when word was broadcast that an air mail pilot, long overdue at Bettis Field, Pittsburgh airport, was lost. The accident is believed to have occurred.

Coolidge Due To Spend 48

Florida

PAYETTEVILLE, N. C., ABOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO FLORIDA, Feb. 1.—President Coolidge was making a flying visit of the most flying sort to Florida today.

This afternoon, he is scheduled to make the dedicatory address for the Bird Sanctuary and Singing Tower, or Carillon, which have been set up for the American public at Mountain Lake, Florida, by Edward Bok, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Coolidge was due to arrive at Mountain Lake, located almost squarely in the center of the state, promptly at three o'clock this afternoon. Equally promptly, he will leave there to return to Washington at 9:15 p. m. tonight. All invitations to carry a mail at various points in the East Coast's winter playground have been ignored. The chief executive will spend six hours in Florida and then start right back for the National Capital.

The President will spend forty-eight hours on the train for the purpose of this short visit. It is in keeping, however, with his trips in the past, when he has made long journeys away from Washington only to speak and then immediately re-entrain.

Weather Changes
Mr. Coolidge was in striking contrast to the fact that just two months ago he took up avidly the sport of hunting small game in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia.

Brief as it was, the President got a glimpse of much different weather today as his train moved south. When he left Washington last night it was snowing. Today, the weather stood, if not balmy as the special proceeded south.

Councilman Tyler believes that firemen and policemen are no more qualified to receive a pension than other city employees. He so informed colleagues.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—With more than 150 road bills already before the Pennsylvania legislature, it seems probable at this time that many members of the House and Senate will have some explaining to do when they return home at the conclusion of the 1929 legislative sessions.

Two years ago the House and Senate passed an omnibus road bill increasing the state's highway system, but this year Governor Fisher has stated that he does not favor another omnibus road measure. The result has been that members are hopeful that each will be lucky enough to see his own bills carried triumphantly through both houses.

Road Committee Swamped
Road committees in both houses are already swamped with road measures and the end is not yet in sight. Introducing bills providing that certain stretches of road be taken over and maintained as part of the state highway system is fast becoming an indoor sport. It is true that a majority of the road measures presented thus far have been at the request of the folks "back home" who believe their representative will be able to procure a piece of improved highway for them.

Many members themselves privately express the opinion that the bills they have sponsored do not have a chance to pass, but that they have introduced them to satisfy constituents.

At the end of the 1922 legislative session those members who have accepted bills for introduction without

Wealthy Couple Is Seriously Wounded

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gay, wealthy German-born couple, were found seriously wounded in their palatial home early today. Mystery surrounds the shooting.

Gay is suffering from wounds in the head and stomach while his wife, Sarah, 45, has a bullet wound in the head.

The only clue police have to work on until the couple recover consciousness is a brief message Gay was reported to have telephoned an employee. He whispered: "Come quick. I shot myself. It looks accidental."

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Spurred on by the offer of a reward of $100 for information leading to the recovery of the body of Verna Klink, who has been missing since a week ago tonight, police today continued their search along the shores of the Susquehanna river with grappling hooks.

Although all efforts to locate the body of the girl have proved futile the tireless search went on in the ice-filled waters. Police still hold to the theory that the girl's body is in the river but freezing weather has handicapped them in their work.

FRANKLIN COURT-
HOUSE, La., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Ada Leboeuf was hanged here today for the murder of her husband, James J. Leboeuf.

The death trap was opened at 12:10 p. m. She was to hang for 21 minutes.

Her physician paramour, Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, was to follow her to the death chamber.

Until the moment before she walked to the chamber she called for Dr. Dreher.

"Isn't this a terrible thing", she moaned as her eyes were blindfolded and her legs bound.

"Isn't this terrible", she sobbed. "This is murder, God bless all of you people. Oh, my God, oh, my God."

While the woman writhed and moaned she was plunged into oblivion. Just before the trap was sprung she bellowed: "Save the wall in a sudden burst of terror."

Father J. J. Rousseau of Franklin then began the monotonous chant of the sacrament of extreme unction.

Both Are Hanged.

CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off from here at 5:40 a. m. today for Miami, Fla.

He was flying a Curtiss Falcon biplane. On Monday he will open a new air mail route to the Panama Canal Zone.

Colonel Lindbergh was to make at least one stop, probably at Charleston, S. C., and then continue on to Miami if the weather proved favorable. On his flight from Miami to Colon, which will open the new mail line officially, the flying colonel will use a Sikorsky Amphibian plane.

Here's February short and snappy. Here to make the coal men happy, weather brisk and cold and scrappy. Keep the furnace on. Usually it blows and blusters, need all clothes that one can muster, hits us with an icy duster till the day's gone. Just a tiny month but mighty, sometimes rather wild and flighty, fellow needs a woolen nightgown, on the nights he sends, blows and storms and loudly cusses, ties up trucks and cars and busses, for a small led how he fusses, doesn't seem to end. February is a freezer, hits us in the face or knees, or bites us in his play, short and snail but what a buster, sends us all that he can muster, wind and snow and icy bluster, twenty-five today.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 1.—Two men in the city jail dropped two convicted slayers to their deaths here today. Leonard R. Yeager, 31, Illinois farmer, and Thomas Lowry, 23, Chicago and St. Louis gangster, paid for murder. The traps were sprung at 6:19 a. m. Lowry was dead at 6:30 and Yeager at 6:45 a. m.

Yeager killed Clarence Schenck, aged St. Louis tailor, who carried a saloon as in and a pal, Maurice Birmingham, were holding it up. Birmingham turned state's evidence and saw a life term.

same time he saw the man at the window. He feared that he moved in any direction that they might shoot him. He did not stir until they were gone, then he made a beeline for the police station across the street.

Officers Lerner and Thompson scoured the city in the police car but without success. On their trip about the city they found a brown felt hat at South Mercer street and South streets, but there is no proof that it was worn by the robbers. C. G. Logan, city detective, completed the investigation this morning. The police believe it possible that these men were merely securing the guns to pull off some bigger job.

The guns taken were all of the Harrington and Richardson make, one being 22 calibre and three 32 calibre.

Odd Fellows Plan Patriarchal League

Odd Fellows who hold the patriarchal degree are forming an International County Patriarchal league to include Odd Fellows from Butler, Lawrence, Crawford and Venango counties. The league results from the division of a larger league which included parts of Ohio, but which was found to be unwieldy.

The first meeting of the league will be held in New Castle on February 3, when the Royal Purple degree will be conferred on a class of candidates. Delegations from Franklin, Oil City, Meadville, Greenville, Sharon, Grove City, Butler, Slippery Rock and New Castle are expected to attend.

tempered to land in a field. That on coming down he sighted an obstacle to a safe landing and tried to rise again was indicated by the fact that the throttle of the plane was found wide open.

Cecil was found sitting upright in the cockpit. In his jacket searchers found a note which read: "Failed to stop at Youngstown because of darkness." An examination of the seven air mail sacks showed that four had been consigned to Youngstown.

Mistook River. Cecil left Cleveland last night at seven o'clock and was due at the Pittsburgh airport at Betts Field at eight thirty. Fellow fliers believe Cecil mistook the Monongahela river, which flows south to West Virginia, for the Ohio river, which is the ribbon aviators follow to get to Betts Field.

An examination of the body here this morning revealed that death was due to a fractured skull.

Poor Trotzky.
Word of Fear.
Big Business.
The Oil Fight.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1929, King Features
Syn. Inc.)

Being head of a revolution is pleasant until the tide turns. Lenin died in time, Trotzky didn't. First they sent him to cold Siberia and now they exile him to Turkey. When he goes to heaven the ghosts of Danton and Robespierre will sympathize with Trotzky.

Meanwhile the Soviet has an exhibition in New York of things that Russia can make without the help of the czar and it's an impressive exhibition.

The Russian government teaches full-grown men and women to read and write, abandoning the czar's theory: "The less they know the more easily they are governed."

That and giving the land to peasants helps to sustain Russia's new government.

One word that high finance can't stand is the dread word "revolution". An English tramp said he ate well, slept well and felt well. But when anybody talked about work he "came all over a tremble".

In Spain there is talk of a revolution. It may not amount to much, but the magic word revolution makes finance tremble.

Wednesday the value of Spanish exchange dropped 32 points. This is a stupor, Spain is a strong, prosperous country. But fear does not reason.

If you are talking about prosperity it will interest you to know that General Motors set a new high record, earning $279,000,000 in 1928; $38,566,000 in the last two months.

That means more than 6 per cent on 43,500,000 shares of common stock now outstanding.

That really is "big business".

Haley Fisk, President and Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Company, have the thanks of their policy holders. This year the Metropolitan will divide in dividends for policy holders, $77,138,725—bigger by $9,000,000 than any previous distribution.

Big business works well, if you know how to run it.

There is a real fight in the oil world. Charles Evans Hughes, formerly a justice of the supreme court, is hired by the Rockefeller side to fight Col. Stewart of Standard Oil of Indiana.

Col. Stewart, one of the first to use airplanes in business, keeps busy all over the country.

Meanwhile little buyers of oil stocks see prices shrinking and tremble. They needn't. The fight will be over soon. The oil will remain.

Gen. Attiburgh's Pennsylvania railroad gives shop employees $3,500,000 more per year. That's good for employees, still better for the railroad.

Industrial leaders realize that their prosperity depends on general prosperity. Big corporations, paying well, build up for themselves a sort of industrial "samurai" as valuable and reliable as the "two sword men" that protected Japan's nobles in the old days.

While England is telling Uncle Sam what he may and may not build in the way of cruisers, "beaten Germany" gives us a useful lesson.

Beylin has built a 9,000-ton cruiser, carrying 11-inch guns, able to blow out of the water the modest eight-inch gun cruisers that Uncle Sam proposes to build.

Some day perhaps our noble government will learn to attend to its own business instead of letting Europe attend to it.

A six-page pamphlet containing the text of Einstein's new theory, described as a "hard nut to crack" even by the ablest mathematicians, is sold in Berlin for 25 cents. Important things sometimes bring small prices.

Milton's "Paradise Lost" sold for a few pounds. Samuel Johnson sold "Rasselas" for just enough to pay for his mother's simple funeral.

The Prince of Wales visits English miners, half starved, suffering from cold, and is "heart sick at what he sees".

Napoleon visited a man dying of plague in Egypt. A good artist painted a picture of the scene.

Unfortunately royal sympathy does not cure poverty or plague.

Only statesman ship can help miners out of work. Only science can help the sick.

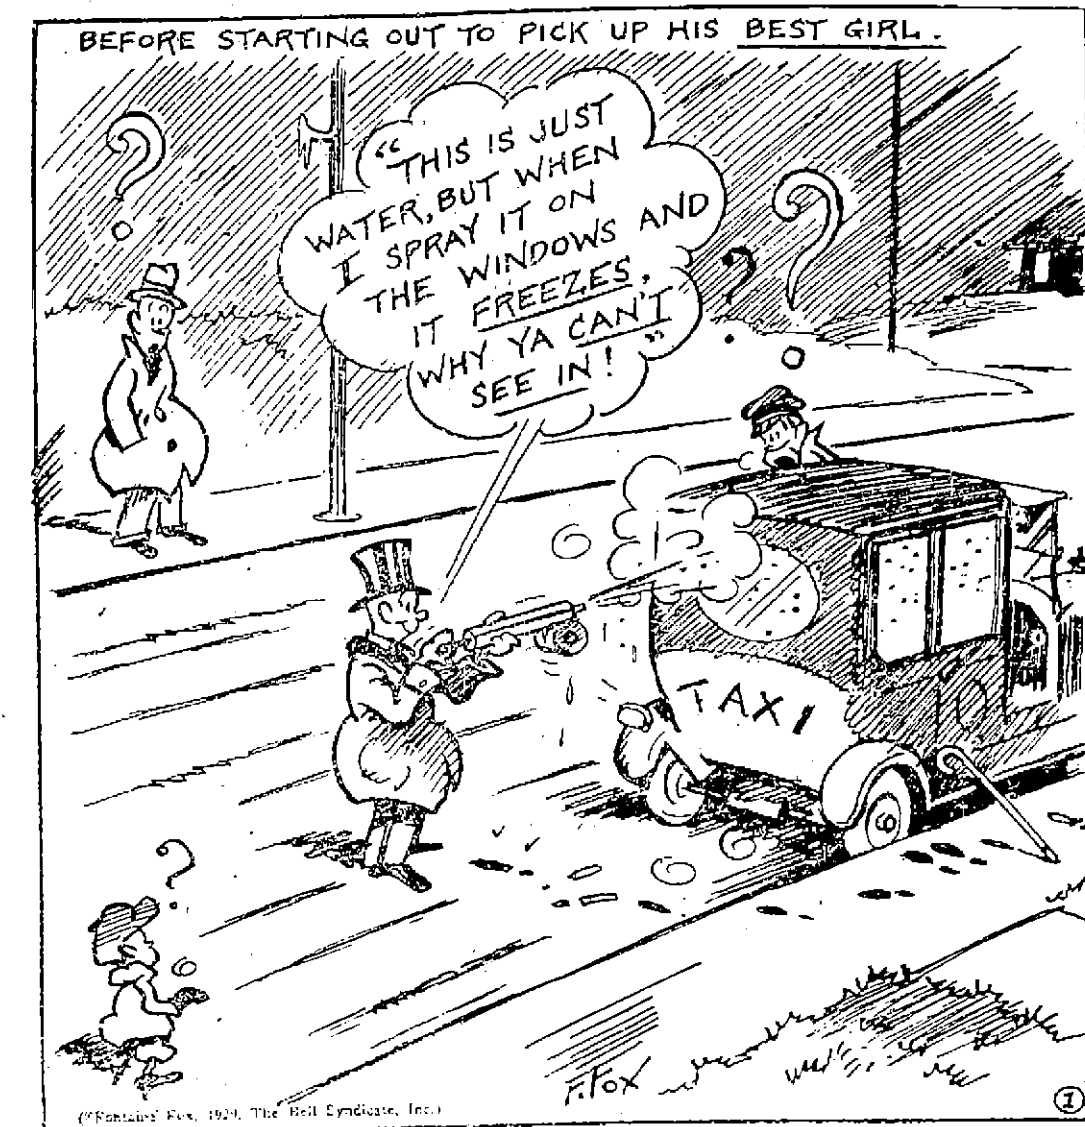

What radio means to the world, particularly to this country with its millions of radio sets, is not appreciated.

Public thanks are due to the Radio Corporation of America that at great expense engages an excellent orchestra led by Walter Damrosch to play every Friday morning at 11 o'clock for school children and all others that care to "tune in".

FARM EFFICIENCY.

A humorous speaker in an address the other day said that life on the farm is vastly different from what it used to be. The farm he said is coming to be organized after the fashion of city business. Instead of the hired man who does the milking, we find a "vice president in charge of cows." He was making a funny speech and the audience laughed. But he was really coming close to truth and giving expression in humorous fashion to a real and reputable idea. The farmer who is going to succeed in this increasingly competitive world is going to organize his business as it was never organized before. He is going to study costs and the ways and wherefores of expressing as never before. And he is going to give analytical study to modern methods of production.

GOOD AND BAD LEADERS.

There is a kind of man with whom we are all familiar who gives one the impression of being a leader because he is always full of new notions. He is forever suggesting that something be done about something. He has a rather vague idea about what ought to be done but he wants to do it. Or he desires intensely to get his friends interested in doing something about it. Sometimes he passes for a leader in the community. Frequently he mistakes mere change for progress. He gets a thrill out of seeing things changed. The fact that they are often changed for the worse doesn't much concern him. There is no virtue in leadership if you are not going anywhere.

Judge And Jury Congratulated
On Sending Kidnapers To Prison

Courageous Dealing With Criminals In Chicago Regarded By Some Observers As A Possible
Turning Point

A possible turning point in crime conditions of the larger cities, especially Chicago itself, is seen by some observers in the action of a Chicago judge and jury who sent two kidnapers-for-ransom to prison in the face of death threats from the murderers of a state witness in the case.

A momentary silver lining to the black cloud of lawlessness, it is seen by the MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE, which says in reviewing the case: "The sentencing of these two wretches to 25 years in the penitentiary will be acclaimed by the nation, and perhaps with some justification, as a triumph for law and order in the Illinois metropolis. Yet the very bouquets which are tossed Chicago-ward can only emphasize the low estate to which that crime-ridden city has fallen. We do not ordinarily congratulate a community for prosecuting fearlessly and energetically, those cowardly scoundrels who steal its children and hold them for ransom under penalty of death. We do not ordinarily felicitate judges and prosecuting attorneys and jurors who have the rudimentary decency and courage to take their stand against one of the blackest of crimes."

"The trouble with the silver edging to the Chicago cloud is that it is only suggested, by unpleasant contrast, the blackness and weakness and impotency of the whole ugly mass." "Police could, if they would," according to the EL PASO HERALD "pounce down upon Chicago's gangland and have nearly every one of its criminals in jail within a fortnight." "The police know who the gangsters are. They would have little trouble on this score." The Herald sees an aftermath of the case, however, in the prospect that "the judge must ever be on his guard, for at any moment he is likely to be made a mark for assassins' bullets, or his home may be blown to atoms by gangland bombs." That paper further suggests: "Surely there are enough good citizens in a city with a population of 3,000,000 to see that right prevails. But if the better element does not take the initiative in clamping down with a viselike grip on the criminal forces, there is little hope that Chicago will be made a safe city for decent people for many years."

"The question was presented whether it is possible for outlaws to so terrorize a great city as to make fair trial by jury impossible," declares the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, with the further comment: "The outcome of the trial is a triumph for law."

"It is obvious enough that had this court or jury permitted itself to be intimidated, as the underworld intended should be, a serious blow would have been struck at social order. A crisis was presented. When organized banditry learns it can terrorize the law and paralyze justice, if it ever can, there will be an end of liberty."

"Every miscarriage of justice, whether through inefficient prosecution, incapable jurors or uncooperative judges, has the effect of undermining public security."

"Had you been sitting on that jury, what would you have done?" queries the MORGANTOWN NEW DOMINION, and that paper says of the trial: "The two defendants had already kidnapped a little boy and held him for $60,000 ransom. Members of their gang had demonstrated that they would not hesitate to kill in defense of their comrades. Wouldn't you ponder a moment about the possibility that this gang might seek you out, after the trial was over and forgotten, and take a shot at you or put a bomb under your house? We agree with the judge. The jury did show courage, and it deserves congratulations for doing so in the face of the whole country in thus doing its part to stamp out going rule and terrorism."

"It is to be hoped," suggests the CLEVELAND NEWS, "the Chicago police will show unwavering diligence, and efficiency in guarding the homes, families and lives of the judge, jurors and prosecutors—and not discontinue the sentry duty after a few days, on the assumption that danger has passed."

"The example of the Chicago judge and jury should be followed by other courts, and juries," urges the ALBANY TRIBUNE. "We do not advocate cruelty. But the law is not cruel when it imposes upon such a criminal as the child stealer a penalty in some measure proportionate to the crime his cruelty and cupidity led him to commit. In former years children of the wealthy have been kidnapped and held for ransom, and the underworld has chuckled the hands of justice, and so bold have the criminals become that the gangster's bullet has served as a terrible warning to any who might wish to assert their rights." The Star believes that the menace of death "could not continue if outraged public opinion in Chicago would demand the execution of these criminal hands which have fattened upon the unholy alliance with politics. Long prison terms or deportation," continues that paper, "would create for the first time a due regard for the law."

"The belief that our immigration rules, while more stringent than formerly, still are strengthening in the manner of selecting applicants," is emphasized by the TULSA WORLD, with the further contention that "it is up to the authorities to see that no more criminals shall be transplanted to American soil."

The LEXINGTON LEADER asserts that "it should be possible for a government in such a situation as that in Chicago, to determine very quickly who, among all those involved in the court proceedings, are entitled to be in the country, and to deport summarily every man or woman who is convicted of crime after sentence has been served, and every one who cannot demonstrate that he is rightly a resident or legally a citizen."

Exclusive Cable Press Dispatch to New York, Feb. 1.—They used to do it in the draft days to trap fellows who tried to get out of joining the Big Tiff. Last week a man who was arrested for begging without a license pleaded "defiance to the court." The judge's sympathy was aroused and he was permitted to go. As he stepped away from the bar, however, a court attendant crept up behind him, and dropped four dimes at his feet. The "defiant" clump immediately turned and looked at the coins, whereupon he was brought back and given thirty days.

Raymond was ahead $20,000 and the Greek was "out almost $35,000, when Raymond advised the Greek's tie.

"Gee, that's a pip!" said Raymond. "I'd like to have it."

Hodge Offers To Accept $20,000

Proposal In North Street Extension Property Seizing Given Council

William Nunn today told members of council in formal session at city hall that he had been authorized to inform them that Judson R. Hodge would accept $20,000 for his Neshannock avenue property taken for the city in order that an approach to the Neshannock creek bridge could be erected at North street.

Council gave no indication as to what their attitude is and will consider the offer.

Council recently offered Hodge $15,000. The offer expires today, hence Mr. Nunn's appearance.

Nunn said he was acting as a mediator.

Hodge claimed recently he was unable to secure a suitable property for his business. Today Nunn said he believed he could secure a suitable property to suit Hodge's business.

Burning Chimney Calls Out Firemen

COUNCIL DELAYS TAKING ACTION ON PENSION BILL

have the civil service commission be the judge as to whether a policeman or fireman would be disqualified for service at 55.

The measure, authorized by state law, was presented some weeks ago by Councilman Davies. It was prepared by Solicitor White and council has talked the proposed ordinance over several times.

Today Councilman Davies remarked that it was time for the members to consider the proposed pension bill formally and the city clerk was directed to read the bill.

Provisions of Bill.

The salient points of the measure as proposed now are:

One per cent of all taxes levied and collected for general revenue purposes and an equal amount received from the state treasurer from foreign insurance companies is to constitute the pension fund which would be under the councilmanic pension board's control.

The percentage to be paid retired police or firemen would be based on the average salary for their last five years and no pension would be paid anyone until 20 years' continuous service.

However, the bill is written so that police and firemen who have been in service continuously since February 1, 1916, are to enjoy its benefits.

To be retired one must be 55 years old.

At 55, however, a policeman or fireman cannot retire of his own volition. This is one point which caused Councilman Reeves to ponder which would be the best plan to follow.

One clause would give council the right to say if the "man is disabled for duty." Another proposed clause would give the power to the civil service board.

Councilman Davies desired that the commission have the jurisdiction so that future councils could not play politics. Reeves said a future civil service board could play politics. He favors council control.

When police or firemen reach 60 they can retire of their own volition. As their age increases, even though retired, the percentage of pension increases, something Mayor Gillespie doesn't favor.

The percentage of their last five years' average salary which would be paid out by the city, as written in the proposed measure considered follows:

Fifty-five years, 25 per cent; 60 years, 40 per cent; 65 years, 50 per cent, and the same at 70 years when a policeman or fireman must retire.

It was pointed out that police and firemen receive salaries when ill and not engaged in their duties. It was stated that corporation employees do not.

Councilman Reeves remarked that employees of the street department are as faithful as other employees, and Councilman Tyler asked why all city employees should not be considered.

Solicitor White said there is now a state act which would make this possible, and Reeves asked why a measure could not be so prepared. Burns said that such a bill could be prepared.

"Why Pay When Not Working?"

Mayor Gillespie asked, "Why do we pay salaries when the men are not working? All they need do is to state they are ill and their salaries continue."

"Not in the department of streets," advised Reeves.

"No, and not in the Carnegie steel mills, either," answered Mayor Gillespie.

The mayor also said he does not like the provision which increases the retirement pay with increasing age of the policeman or fireman. "He does not do anything for the city," he added.

"No, but he put 20 years good service behind him," answered Councilman Davies.

"What will we do with it?" asked the mayor, meaning the bill should be reported from committee favorably or unfavorably and sent to the printing office.

"Gentlemen, I cannot vote for this as it is written," said Tyler.

Reeves remarked that he did not like the measure.

Councilman Burns advised that it "lay a little longer," during which time it will be considered informally.

The pension now, apparently, has reached a point where some believe all employees should receive a pension or none.

HIGHWAY BILLS CLOG HOPPER AT STATE CAPITAL

explaining the little likelihood of their passing will have a big job explaining at home just what happened.

Revenues Depleted.

Under the present highway revenues it would seem unlikely that a single stretch of road of any length could be added to the state highway system. The highway program as planned for the coming two years will eat up all of the revenue looked for during that period and even then it is improbable that the work hoped to be done can be completed.

The program in its entirety, it has been learned, can be carried out only in the event that the legislature grants an increase in revenue and the increase can be gotten only by raising the gasoline tax to four cents, doubling the fee of automobile drivers to two dollars and by developing fees which would bring more revenue from bus and truck owners. With the increase in revenue, which would amount to between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 more each year, there would be a possibility at least that some of the numerous road bills now before the legislature would be given some attention.

Up to Legislators

From the sidelines just now it would appear that the entire matter is in the hands of the legislature. If the members want the present road program carried out and additional roads added to the system, then additional revenue must be provided.

Criticism from those at home will come to members who are unable to move local improvement bills and unless there is more revenue there is no possible chance of moving them.

Members of both houses who started early to swamp their respective branches with road bills have developed a situation which is fast becoming acute and one which may develop into trouble for increased revenue and more roads or vote against an increase in revenue and fail to procure improved highways for their districts.

Shortage is predicted in radio sets for this year. And in time justice may create a shortage in radio neighbors.—The Dallas Journal.

WILL REMOVE LETTER BOXES FROM POLES

To Place Mail Boxes On Separate Stands As Soon As Weather Permits

New Castle post office authorities today announced the receipt of 75 concrete letter box poles to be used in various places about the city where the mail boxes at present hang on poles owned by the Pennsylvania-Ohio electric system. According to Postmaster E. W. Crawford, the letter boxes will be removed and placed on the new poles just as soon as the weather permits.

Botham and Smith of this city, which firm was awarded the contract for the transporting and erecting of the new poles, transferred the first shipment of poles from a local railroad depot to the grounds of the post office building Thursday. As soon as the weather moderates and the frost leaves the ground the same firm will begin to locate and erect the poles.

The boxes are being removed as a result of action taken by the local electric company which called for all such boxes to be taken from their poles. The boxes were regarded as hazards to the company's line men while on their poles.

Postmaster Crawford states that approximately 60 poles will be erected this Spring in all sections of the city. The contract calls for all work to be completed on or before May 1.

LEFT BEHIND BECAUSE THEY COULDN'T MAKE UP THEIR MINDS

"What is the matter with you, Gobbler?" asked Peter. "You have been fussing about crossing the water for goodness only knows how long and you are no nearer the other side now than you were when you started. And all the turkeys are behaving in the same foolish fashion. If you don't wish to fly—swim—if you don't want to swim—fly! But do something."

"That is just the trouble, boy," sighed Gobbler, sadly. "I know I must either fly or swim if I am to reach the other shore, but I simply can't decide which to do."

"That is the worst fault we turkeys have—we can't make up our minds. Why would you believe it, I never could decide whether I was ready to roost or not until the darkness came, and I never was sure just what branch I wished to alight upon until the very last beam of daylight was fading out of the sky, yet I spent every single night of my life until I left the barnyard on the same old apple tree bough."

"If only one of the turkeys would start now, I would follow him, all right."

"What stuff and nonsense!" cried Peter, in a disgusted tone. "The idea of letting another person make up your mind for you. You are the first to move yourself and let the others follow. I'll bet every single turkey here is wishing the same thing that you do."

"Come now, I've an idea. I'll say a little verse, and when I reach the word 'go,' you go. Will you promise?"

"Yes," said Gobbler, suddenly. "I will. As long as I don't have time to think, I am all right."

"Fine!" exclaimed the boy. "Now, then:

"One for a penny, two for a show, Three to make ready and four to go."

Gobbler! Swish! True to his promise, at the given signal Gobbler rose into the air, and straight as a dish made for the other shore, and after him, just as the boy had been sure they would, flew all the rest of the turkeys.

Plan For Museum At Senior High

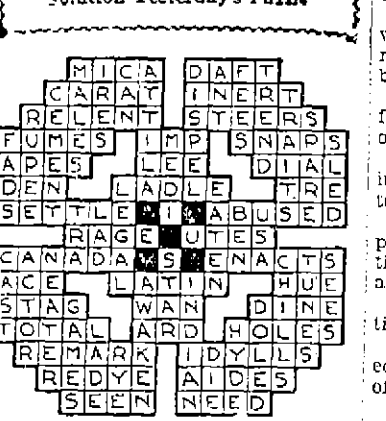

Plans are underway at the senior high school to establish a museum, according to reports from Nicholas Cassillo, who is in charge of the Biology department.

Mr. Cassillo stated that he would appreciate any species of mounted animals that people of New Castle would donate to get the museum started.

Mr. Cassillo also stated that the classes in biology are full and thus shows that students are taking interest in the study more and more every day.

A local parent says his boy at college has been doing rather better in classes since he developed insomnia during the day. The Ottawa Journal.

Insists His Discovery Opens Up Catarrh Stuffed Nostrils In Three Minutes-Sometimes Less

Advises All Catarrh Victims to Throw Away Stomach Medicines. End Loathsome Catarrh With Opex and Get Rid of Disgusting Mucus Forever

30 Days Free Trial Says McKee's Kut Rate Store
21 N. Mill Street

Catarrh, one of the most loathsome of diseases, is caused by germs—wicked, vicious, persistent pests that multiply rapidly and by digging into and devouring the tender membrane cause soreness, swelling, inflammation and mucous discharges.

A few years ago, Catarrh was considered incurable, because no one was clever enough to get a formula that would spread over the membranes of the nasal tract a purifying substance in which catarrh germs could not exist.

But Opex changed all that and now all you have to do to get rid of catarrh is to spray on Opex and send the germs to eternity.

Just note the picture showing how Opex puts catarrh out of business. See the steam-like smoke going in one nostril and out the other.

That's the way to end catarrh and to lessen those annoying, ringing, buzzing noises in the ears. Many people say it is the only way.

The price of a bottle of Opex that will last two months is $1.00—it is easily worth one hundred dollars to any man or woman who wants clean healthy nostrils free from disgusting mucus.

Opex will end the most stubborn case of catarrh in a few days, because it soothes and heals the sore, inflamed membranes, reduces the swelling and purifies the entire nasal tract.

To make it easy for catarrh sufferers in this vicinity to secure a bottle of Opex and a specially constructed Opex atomizer, McKee's Kut Rate Store has agreed to keep a supply on hand at all times and will gladly show anyone how easy it is to get rid of disgusting catarrh at trifling cost.

Opex is for sale only at McKee's Kut Rate Store with the distinctive understanding that if you are not satisfied at the end of 30 days your money will be gladly returned. Opex is delightful to use because of its wholesome fragrance.

Secret Marriage Of High School Girl Causes $5,000 Loss

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—Secret marriage to Alfred Parnell, then physical instructor at the Benjamin Franklin high school, cost Mrs. Maclean Connelly Parnell more than $5,000. In December, 1925, when she was a senior in the Uniontown high school, Miss Connelly was badly hurt when an automobile driven by Louis Curry, son of John J. Curry, a lumber dealer, ran up on the curb and struck her. The school girl was in the Uniontown hospital for many weeks, and in the resultant suit, represented that she was permanently incapacitated. A jury returned a verdict of $12,000 in favor of the girl and her father, Philip E. Connelly. No mention of Miss Connelly's marriage was made at the hearing but, a few months later, attorneys for Curry appeared in court and requested a reduction on the grounds that the girl had secretly been married. The court instructed a reduction of a new trial and yesterday an agreement of $6,500 was reached: $3,000 for the father and $3,500 for the daughter.

Handsomeness And Women Sought For Parliament Seats

Good Looks And Appearance Play Large Part In British Politics

(International News Service) LONDON, Feb. 1.—The chief agents and organizers of the three political parties—Conservative, Liberal and Socialist—have come to the conclusion that good looks and sartorial presentability will play a big part in the next election, for the main and simple reason that the women of England now have the vote.

Other things being equal, the handsome Parliamentary candidate with a charm of manner will be selected as against the man who is not so well favored with good looks. The fact that official word to this effect has been passed around in the hallways of all three parties is proof of the importance which is attached to the women's vote. Elderly candidates will not be discarded entirely, but the general average will be much younger than ever before and, if possible, much more handsome.

The ideal candidate, according to a prominent politician, is as follows: "The best kind of candidate from the 'appeal' point of view is a fine, upstanding man of about thirty-five. Too rosy and inexperienced an appearance is not exactly a recommendation.

Voice is of immense importance. The candidate with the right kind of voice, and real sincerity and a plea in it, can win more votes from the women than the merely good-looking man."

Political observers feel that the Liberal average of good looks will beat the Conservative, while the Socialists apparently have few "Adonises" in their ranks. The latter party, it is understood, plans to appeal strongly to the women by launching a number of youthful women candidates, who will be distinguished by their fashionable dress and attractive appearance.

Captain Manning's Mother Threatened

Blackmailers Seek To Extract $7,000 From Mrs. Anna Manning, Mother Of Hero

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Special patrolmen were assigned today to guard the home of Mrs. Anna Manning, mother of Acting Captain Harry Manning hero of the Florida rescue following the receipt of death threats against her son.

An anonymous letter warned Mrs. Manning that "your son will be dead by Sunday" unless $7,000 is placed in a felt bag and left in a hole to the right of the stairway at a Bronx address.

An investigation at the address given in the letter revealed no trace of the blackmailers. The possibility of the existence of a blackmail "ring" which preys upon persons in the public eye was seen by the police in the fact that the address also specified in a threatening letter received a month ago by the father of a girl named Kesler after she was reported kidnapped.

Acting Captain Manning is now in mid-ocean in command of the S. S. America. The rescue ship sailed for Bremen Wednesday noon.

Amends Rules On Welding Ladders

Board Also Revises Mechanical Power Transmission Regulations

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—The industrial board of the department of labor and industry, at its last meeting amended the existing ladder regulations, which permits the welding of ladders when the necessary permission has been granted by the board. Heretofore only rivets or bolts were permitted in their manufacture. The welding is permitted when the board has been satisfied that concerns possess the necessary equipment and have employees fully qualified to perform the work.

The board also revised the mechanical power transmission regulations, following a scientific study based on past accident records in the department. Under the new regulations which will be uniform for all classes of industry and effective February 16, the safeguards required are expected to be equally as effective for the protection of workers and will result in savings to the employer.

The college responsible for this set of rules, which the average coed or college youth would probably term "blue laws" in their deepest blue, is a Seventh-Day Adventist institution.

Capitol Was Mecca For Show Visitors

Civil War Battle Flags One Of Chief Objects Of Interest

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Although not "billed" as one of the attractions of the state farm products show the capitol building proved a mecca for an unusually large number of visitors. Veteran guides estimated the crowd of visitors as the largest which viewed the capitol during any three-day period.

The governor's reception room and the legislative chambers were kept open during the evening to permit the visitors to see the mural paintings. One of the chief objects of interest

Auto Dealers Meet At Elks Club Today

Members of the New Castle Automobile Dealers association met today at noon for a short business meeting at the Elks club. The business session followed a luncheon which was served at 12:15.

Business of the meeting pertained to arrangements for the annual automobile show which will take place this month.

When the sun goes south for the winter eat canned fruits and vegetables, sweetened for enjoyment

GLANCE at a chart of the United States showing all of the fruits and vegetables with the time when they come on the market, and you will be amazed at how many long months there are that are almost completely blank.

This of course means that during those months the sun goes south for the winter. It is the concern of every man, woman and child to see that health does not go south with the sun.

Viewed in this true light, the canning factories and sugar refineries of this country extend the season of fruits and vegetables into the winter. They place the health-giving fruits and vegetables, together with their acids, minerals and vitamins, in protecting cans, and place these in every grocery store throughout the United States where we can buy them with almost no difficulty at all, and the sugar refineries produce the sweetening to make these healthful foods delicious to the taste.

During the long months of winter every meal from breakfast to dinner may well contain some health-giving canned foods. Canned fruits, jams, jellies and preserves for breakfast, and canned fruits and vegetables for luncheon and dinner.

People are living longer than they used to. Isn't part of this probably due to the increasing use in the winter-time of canned foods? Eat enough of these healthful foods made enjoyable with sugar. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute

NEW HEALTH TAKES PLACE OF GLOOM; KONJOLA TRIUMPHS

Pennsylvania Lady Was Told There Was No Hope For Her—Operations Were Recommended.

"For fear that some may believe that I exaggerate, let me say that I am happy to verify every statement I make about what this world's greatest medicine, Konjola, did for me," said Mrs. Edward J. Slattery, 16 Salford street, Philadelphia, Pa.

MRS. EDWARD J. SLATTERY

Four weeks ago I was dismissed from a hospital after being told that there was nothing that could be done for me. Others indicated a series of three operations; still others suggested that all my teeth be extracted and my tonsils removed. I was discouraged and melancholy. I was weak, nervous and down to 87 pounds. I was filled with gloom and despair. Who wouldn't be?

In desperation I decided to take Konjola. Well, it did everything for me, for in four weeks Konjola restored my health, banished the Commissioners Divide Work

County Commissioners P. O. Elder, Calvin C. Boyd and T. J. McCullough have apportioned their work for the year of 1929. It is customary for the commissioners to meet at the first of a new year to divide the work of the county for the 12 months just ahead, but on last January 1 this matter was postponed one month because of the illness of the commissioners at the beginning of 1929.

A meeting was held yesterday for this purpose, according to an announcement today. Commissioner Elder, it was decided, would superintend the work with the poor for the coming year. Commissioner Boyd will handle the roads and Commissioner McCullough will have in his charge the bridges of the county.

Uniontown Man Is Victim Of Fumes

Find Aged Uniontown Man Dead From Effects Of Monoxide Gas In Bedroom

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—Charles M. Fee, 71, United States commissioner who was found dead in a room of his home here last night, today was believed to have been a victim of monoxide gas poisoning. A small gas stove was found burning in the room.

The commissioner's body in night attire was found on the floor of his room, indicating that he had tried to reach the door when he felt the effects of the deadly gas.

The body was discovered by friends who had gone to his home to ascertain his absence from dinner at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John Klamensky.

Fee's wife died last week and since her death he had remained in his room most of the time.

We don't know what President Coolidge is going to do after March 4, but whatever it is we would like to see on to such rouge but you won't let bet that he doesn't complain about it.

NEW CASTLE - - - - - OUR CASTLE

The Woman's Club - Organized in 1887.

"GOD COULDN'T BE EVERYWHERE, SO HE MADE MOTHERS."

In this proverb, even the pagan recognizes in the mother, the God appointed guardian of the race.

Our own city knows no greater need than just such guardianship or mothering—for our homes, for our schools, for our recreations and for our public house-keeping. To aid such work is the aim of this column.

'TIS AN ILL WIND

Special privileges always bring attendant responsibilities. Women have found it so with the long coveted ballot—in realization of the need of keeping informed about government affairs and policies. Nothing has proved more stimulating to an interest in such reading than occasional lectures on topics of the day. In presenting such topics at intervals during a number of years, no one has proved more acceptable to members of the Woman's Club than Dr. Coleman of Geneva College. So while it is a matter of regret that the program committee has been unable to carry out its program as planned for February 4, its good fortune in securing Dr. Coleman as a substitute insures an entertaining and profitable afternoon to all.

TEACHERS' QUALIFICATIONS

While the standard of qualifications for teaching positions in New Castle has gradually been getting a little higher, a two-year normal course is still accepted by the state for elementary schools and is accepted in New Castle. Of course, this normal course must be preceded by graduation from high school, and teaching ability must be established before the state grants a certificate. The present tendency would indicate that before long the four year normal course with a bachelor's degree will be required for all teachers. As the normal course is a special training of the student for the teaching profession, graduates from colleges must also show some training in this line in order to make their acceptance possible. Westminster College by giving its students training in teaching through its practice teaching received in our public schools may be able to satisfy the state in this regard.

While the minimum of a two year normal course may qualify for teaching in our elementary schools, nothing short of a four year college or normal school course will suffice for junior or senior high school. Such diploma or certificate being presented must have written in it the name of the branch or branches in which the applicant has received special instruction and the law does not permit that he be assigned any other subject than the one specified. Formerly when there was no opening for the applicant in his own specialty, he was occasionally placed temporarily in some other line and later transferred to his own subject. This is no longer permitted. This new ruling will make it more difficult for teaching applicants to secure locations but should work to the interests of the schools, in increased efficiency in work.

Inexperienced teachers are not eligible to the senior high school.

ANCIENT EPIGRAMS AND EDUCATION

Our Pennsylvania system of education was organized in 1834. Some epigrams copied last summer from tombstones in an old burial ground a short distance from Shellburg on the Lincoln highway, would indicate that there was no lack of need for this step. Two of these epigrams are submitted exactly as they are spelled and punctuated on the stones. The quaint old church is well worth a visit. The janitor lives in the house adjoining and is satisfied with the tip you give him. These are the epigrams:

Woman Astronomer Knows 250,000 Stars

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—Dr. Annie Jump Cannon might not be able to find her way to East Boston but she can take any one on a tour of the star districts and point out 250,000 stars which she can call by their first names. Since 1911 she has been curator of astronomical photographs for Harvard university and has examined 15,000 photographic plates which picture 250,000 stars.

Dr. Cannon, a native of Dover, Del., holds the first honorary doctorate in natural science ever given a woman by Groningen University in Holland. Since she is a little girl, she has been studying and classifying the stars, starting with her own makeshift observatory in the attic of her home in Dover.

She entered Wellesley college in 1880. As the college at that time had no observatory she conducted her own examinations of the star lands from the porch of old college hall and in 1882 was thrilled by the fleeting visit of the comet of that year. She was graduated in 1884 with a bachelor of science degree.

She taught at Radcliffe and continued her classification work and results began to show in the renown she gained.

In 1911 she was invited to become curator of photographic plates at the Harvard observatory. At that time there were 300,000 plates a history of 35 years' photographic study of the heavens. Dr. Cannon then began the most ambitious catalog of the stars that has ever been undertaken beginning with the stars that were bright enough to show spectra on the photographic plates covering the whole sky from the South to the North Pole.

Wrestling Title At Stake Tonight

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—The title of champion had no effect on Philadelphia wrestling fans today as they rated the contestants in the title bout here tonight between Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, and Jack Smith, California matman. The men are even money in the betting.

Smith, until recently a U. S. army captain, was very impressive in his only showing here two weeks ago when he threw Ray Steel in 18 minutes. Sonnenberg and Frank Yusic here some time ago but the showing of the former all-American football star was not impressive, although he won. The contest, however, will attract about 10,000 spectators, advance sales indicate.

MODESTY - - - - - By Laird

Long, trailing skirts with "little feet, like mice," stealing in and out from under the hem. Women's legs in those days were a matter of speculation. Of course it was presumed they had them, but a dainty ankle was all that was visible to masculine eyes, and that only occasionally when a muddy street had to be crossed and skirts were lifted. "Petting" was unknown—at least the word was—and gentlemen confined their carresses to a respectful kissing of the hand.

What a change the years have brought! Skirts have risen until, not only an occasional ankle, but knees galore—round, knobby, dimpled and bony—meet the eye at every turn, inviting men to boldly stare at what in the past they merely surmised.

Brazen huzzies, all, would be the verdict of that faraway damsel with the rustling voluminous draperies. Modesty is dead. But is it? Aren't women generally healthier, heartier, better pals and sweethearts, better mothers because they have put aside false ideas of modesty—shed them as they have the hampering garments and still more hampering ideas that went with them?

A check totaling $14,150.30 has just been issued to North Beaver township from the Pennsylvania department of highways, according to word received here today. This makes a total of $21,754.53 reward for the township.

The money was for the completion of three and one half miles of slag road, the construction of 6 1/2 miles of ash and slag road and for the building of two concrete bridges.

The new slag road links the Enon highway and the New Castle-Wampum road. It crosses country from Derringers corner on the Enon road, intersecting with the New Castle, Wampum and Pittsburgh road at Moravia.

Hotel Porter Rises To Fame As Poet

(International News Service)
VIENNA, Feb. 1.—The porter of a fashionable Vienna hotel is the latest star of Austrian literary circles.

Hans Schrag, 52, whose lifelong trade was to serve others has at last found his true vocation. He became a poet.

His book which was the surprise of the season is an historical novel based upon through studies of the history of Rome. Its title is "Aventicum," the Latin name of the ancient capital of Helvetia and the book describes the tragic rise and fall of the three soldier-emperors Galba, Otto and Vitellius who fought each other for supremacy during the short period between the death of Nero and the ascent of Vespasian. The author also shows the development of early Christianity and envelops the whole in a gentle love story.

It is the work of a true poet said the critics and they are extremely surprised that it was the work of a porter—an "amateur" with almost no school education.

Schrag is today the "wonder" of Vienna and he is certainly a good advertisement for his hotel as he has not given up his job.

Five French Women Face Death Under Sharp Blade

PARIS, Feb. 1.—With four women today facing the guillotine, unless President Doumergue intervenes a fifth, Mme. Paul Godin, may take her place with them for shooting her husband because he shaved off his mustache.

M. Godin, a notary, arrived home from a three week trip just in time for lunch. As he took his place at the table, Mme. Godin demanded:

"Why did you shave off your mustache; so some girl would think you were handsome?"

M. Godin shrugged his shoulders, got up and started to leave the dining room. Mme. Godin snatched a revolver from a buffet drawer and rushed to stop him at the doorway.

"Go ahead and shoot," Godin said to have remarked smiling, evidently thinking his wife was joking.

She fired. The first bullet killed him. Mme. Godin told the police that Godin was squandering her fortune with other women.

Jurks Kures, Blanch Vabre, Mme. Anna David and Mme. Kurov were sentenced to death on charges of killing minors. Their cases are being debated merely on the principle of breaking a precedent of forty years by guillotining a woman.

France To Bar Film Boosts At Unknown Grave

Publicity Seekers Will Not Be Allowed To Place
Wreaths On Graves

OTHER NEWS NOTES FROM PARIS, FRANCE

By ROBERT W. THOMPSON International News Service Special Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 1.—American movie stars, full-blooded Indians and eastern potentates, will no longer be permitted to lay wreaths at the grave of France's unknown soldier if the Paris municipal council adopts the resolution of M. Le Provost de Launay.

"The Honorable Reverend Chief World-Wide Known White Horse Eagle" left his quota of titles and names in the Golden Book after posing for photographers at the grave.

M. de Launay charged this was a "theatrical gesture" that smacked of publicity-seeking and demanded that similar pilgrimages be forbidden in the future, citing previous performances of Hollywood celebrities and the now deceased King Amanullah of Afghanistan.

"Our Unknown is the symbol of sacrifice of the nation for whom we must demand decent respect," he said.

Visions of wholesale operations and amputations caused Jean Martin, who offered his body to the College of Medicine as a specimen of the human anatomy, to stipulate in his offer that possession was to be taken of his body until after death.

It has long been a popular belief, true or not, that the Faculty of Medicine advances cash to anyone who is willing to surrender his body for scientific purposes after death, and this belief has often been the cause of destitute persons offering their bodies to this institute while still in the flesh.

The institute recovered a letter from Jean Martin, 52, in which he stated that while cash settlement in advance was expected, he wanted it definitely understood that possession would not be taken of his body until after death, at which time the grave digger has already been instructed to make special delivery.

For those who think that position is everything in life, here are a few "Don'ts" emitted by Mme. Odie Knitzel, well-known beauty expert, before an assembly of women at the Salle Advar.

Don't stand with your feet apart, unless you are playing croquet or planting potatoes.

Don't sit with your knees together like an Egyptian mummy.

Don't cross your limbs any higher than the calf of the leg, as this gives an unsightly shortness to these members.

When standing let your weight rest on one foot while the other rests lightly on the floor.

Let your arms and hands be poems of graceful movements.

Don't stand with your hands behind your back. This gives you the appearance of a bird.

There is a whole world of art in knowing how to pick up a handkerchief.

During the lecture Mme. Knitzel demonstrated the awkwardness of certain positions and the grace of others, and it was an amusing sight to see the different members of the audience look out of the corner of their eyes at their neighbors to see if they were being observed and then shyly change their posture.

There are palates and palets and things that tickle the palate, but the artist's palette took on a new importance at an exhibition recently held where the tools and colors of many famous painters were displayed together with their pictures.

The palets to be seen at this exhibition were of every conceivable form: round, square, rectangular, harp-shaped, leaf-like and one consisted with the domestic simplicity of a soup plate. They were often indicative of the type of picture painted by their master.

For example, the palette of a well-known Japanese artist was as clean and bright as a porcelain teacup with a bit of black, a dab of blue, a smear of yellow arranged around the edge in a manner reminiscent of a Japanese signature.

Wonder Dog

BROOKFIELD, Mass., Feb. 1.—"Storm," the dog-sled leader, veteran of one Labrador expedition and owned by Norman Caughen, a member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, was found dead in a field after having been missing four weeks. The dog had been left in care of Arthur Brunnell and it is thought that it might have been struck by an automobile.

"Storm" was unable to take part in the latest expedition with his master because of an accident which caused the loss of one eye.

ALBANY, Feb. 1.—A total of 23,000 employees of labor in New York State received dividends of more than $1,000,000 during 1928 from the state insurance fund in which they hold policies for workmen's compensation, according to a report by James A. Hamilton, retiring state industrial commissioner.

The policies held by these employees covered 300,000 employees.

"Ambulance Chasers" Are Worry To Liners

Barge Owners Property Is "Damaged" By Swell
From Passing Ship

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Waterfront "ambulance chasers" are causing ships entering and leaving New York harbor to proceed with utmost caution.

These "ambulance chasers," according to liner masters, are owners of old barges and scows tied up along the waterfront. After the passing of a liner they find "damage" caused to their property by the swell of the passing ships.

They then appear at the office of the owner of the liner and present their claim for damages.

As a result liners in New York harbor seldom exceed a speed of six knots.

Russia Exiles Leon Trotsky

Former Russian Leader Is Shipped Out Of Country
Forever

By EDWARD L. DEISS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
MOSCOW, Feb. 1.—(The big man to be executed, yet devoted too dangerous longer to be allowed to remain in the United States of Soviet Russia which he helped to found, Leon Trotsky, former commander of the Red army, and friend of Lenin, has been banished forever from his native land.)
The orders, committing Trotsky to perpetual exile outside Russia were signed by Joseph M. Stalin, secretary general of the Communist party, and the control committee of the party, it was learned today when news of the latest events in the turbulent life of Trotsky, the stormy petrel of Communism, became public.
Trotsky was not even accorded a passport certifying to his citizenship of Soviet Russia. Escorted by a heavy guard, he walked up the gangplank of a shaky, Black Sea steamer at Batumi, Georgia, on Tuesday, bound for Turkey. His eventual destination is believed to be Berlin.
Trotsky thus became, literally, a man without a country. The Turkish government, it is understood, has assured the Soviet authorities that Trotsky will be permitted to land in Constantinople.
It is believed here that the former war minister is accompanied to his place of exile by his wife and son.

Letters On Traffic Sign Too Short Man Is Released

OIL CITY, Pa., Feb. 1.—A difference of a quarter of an inch on a traffic sign and a shrewd attorney proved the combination that secured the release of a local motorist before Alderman Daniel H. McCready. The driver had been arrested by a member of the state highway patrol for failing to stop at a through traffic sign. The attorney, carpenter's rule in hand, declared that he had measured the letters on the city sign and that they were 5 1/4 inches high, while the state motor code states that they must be at least six inches high. The defendant was discharged as a result of the testimony.

Finnefrock Writes News Of Sights In Far East During Trip 'Round World

Fred M. Finnefrock of 315 Florence avenue, this city, who is touring the world on different steamships, writes to The News and describes some more of those interesting experiences which he has encountered so far on his journey. Previous letters have been printed in the columns of this paper, but none, probably, came from such a distance as these just received.

One letter comes from the Penang Straits Settlements. It was dated December 29, 1928. The other, coming from Colombo, India, was dated January 2, 1929, but arrived here with the other yesterday.

The letters follow:

Colombo, India, Jan. 2, 1929.
Mr. George W. Conway,
Editor New Castle News,
New Castle, Penna.
Dear Sir:

I am starting this letter at Colombo and will add a little bit every once in a while and try to make it a nice long one. The last letter came from the Penang Straits Settlements. I did not have time to add anything about that place. We were only there over night so I did not have time to look around and write you, so I will now tell you something of Penang.

Penang is a real small town in what is known as the Malay settlements, being to the British and under their flag and ruling. There are very few white people here, and those that are here are mostly English and Scotch. There is nothing here to do the tide for the five-day run to Colombo.

We are on our way now to Suez, another 12-day run. We never even got ashore in Colombo. No shore leave was granted to a single person there, although we laid at anchor for 10 hours or more. I think I could have secured some fine pictures for it sure was a beautiful place from a distance. I could see the big domes of several palaces that appeared as if they were made of marble. I sure wanted to get some pictures but it was impossible. Because we didn't get ashore there I can't tell you much of Colombo. I would imagine that it's a good bit like Singapore.

Then we left for Suez, Port Said and Alexandria, and now it won't be long until we're back in God's country again. We were only two days out of Colombo when we sighted a sailing ship with the distress flag flying so we halted her to hear what the trouble was. She was high in the water and it was a calm sea, so the old man couldn't understand why she would be in distress. However, we turned around and asked her why she was flying the flag. Her captain could hardly speak English. It was what is known as an Indian Dow type of ship. For some time it was impossible for us to comprehend the captain's trouble but finally we made out that she had lost her position and was desiring to know where she was.

Thursday, Jan. 10, 1929—Well, yesterday we passed the corner of Samland and the northern corner of Africa and steamed into the gulf of Aden. About midnight we passed into the straits of Bab-el-Mandeb and into the Red sea. We have passed lots of islands. The Red sea seems to be fairly full of islands but now of them are deserted, and when I say deserted I mean every bit of it. The northern coast of Africa is very desolate. Our deserts in New Mexico would look like a blossoming peach orchard besides some of this country. I can sure tell that we are getting close to Jerusalem.

Jan. 14, 1929—Well, we landed at Suez this date to discharge a passenger and to proceed through the Suez canal to Port Said. We did not get ashore at either place. The canal is not such a wonderful affair as our Panama canal, but still it was very beautiful, at sunset anyway. A beautiful golden blue sunset can't be compared to miles upon miles of sand.

I saw caravans crossing the sands quite a distance away. But it was dark most of the time we were passing through the canal and it was hard to see much. Ships approaching us from other directions had their lights ablaze and it looked like a freight train in the distance. We got into Alexandria tomorrow, the 15th.

Jan. 18, 1929—We have landed at Alexandria and also—no mail. I went ashore in the evening and looked the town over at night. It seems to be the dirtiest place I have been in, including China. Next morning I took a trip all around to take in the sights. I saw the catacombs. A Pampus pillar was 2000 tons in weight and was 87 meters high. It is meters around the base, and seven meters around the top. It was moved down the Nile river and erected entirely by hand. I wonder how it was ever done. It's made of granite. I got some pictures of it and the catacombs. Mummies, skeletons, tombs and almost everything were marked about 5000 B. C.

I took a piece of bone from one skeleton for a souvenir. We also went to the museum and saw a lot of ancient things that were certainly interesting. We saw the sacred bull, the statue of Cleopatra and so many other things I could not mention. After we left there we went about the city. I saw mosques, palaces and other beautiful buildings. As I had only four hours ashore my sightseeing ended soon. Our next stop is Naples, where I will mail this letter. Guess I will close for this time.

Yours truly,
F. M. FINNEFROCK.

Another letter he writes reads as follows:

Penang, Malay S. S., Dec. 29, 1928.

Mr. Conway:—
The last letter from me was sent from Hong Kong. I guess you have received it a good while ago so it is about time for another. Here goes:

As I didn't have time to tell you much about Hong Kong in the last letter I will begin there. We arrived in that city in the morning about 5 o'clock, and I was held spellbound by the beauties that struck my eye immediately after dawn broke. I thought Pago Pago was beautiful but Hong Kong harbor has it beat in several ways. It's just like a green picture. The mountains rise as high as 2100 feet above the city which is built on the side of it. The water on the side of the ship is a deep indigo blue and just tapers off to a light baby blue against the shore line.

I managed to get ashore that day. We were tied up in the Koolon so I went across the bay to the city of Hong Kong. Hong Kong is very clean and not like Shanghai or Kobe. I went up the incline, supposed to be the steepest of its kind in the world, to the peak 2100 feet above the city. I took some pictures of the surrounding country and will show them when I get home, although I found out later that the pictures were not very good.

The view from the mountain was magnificent. One could see at Hong Kong, the bay, with large English ships, battleships and merchant fleets lying at anchor and at docks. It was a sight worth going a long ways to see. By the time I came down from the peak it was lunch time so I hunted up a China-American restaurant. I had ham and eggs (three eggs), a piece of pie, milk and all for 35 mex. or about 17¢ American cents. I got some souvenirs and went back to the ship and to bed early.

Our next port of call was Manila. Where I was very much disappointed after hearing so much about it. It did come up anywhere near my expectations. I saw some water buffalo, the natives, but more properly known as the carabos. A native of the Philippines, he is still to be found wild in parts of Luzon, Negros and Mindanao. The animal is caught young and trained to work. But in spite of civilization he still insists on his regular mid-day bath and siesta in the most convenient water hole or stream.

Besides being as slow as he is, his strength and endurance are not what might be expected from an animal of such huge bulk. He is the beast of burden of the islands and is used alike on the farms, plantations and in the villages. I went through the walled city, or Old Manila. The wall is about 20 feet high and to go to New Manila from the docks you er's hair. I got a picture of them in action. I also saw a man and his family walking up the street. His family included four wives and 17 children. It was explained to me by my richshaw man that the natives are very queer. The women wear pants and the men wear skirts.

Well, I guess I will close before I run out of ink. Will drop you a few lines from Marseilles, France when we get there.

Cordially yours,
F. M. FINNEFROCK.

Wife Makes More Selling Beer Than Spouse As Lawyer

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—"My wife makes more money selling beer than I make practicing law," Vincent G. Ponio told the court in which his wife had applied for alimony.

"I was forced to become a bootlegger in order to send our 19 year old son, Junior, through Notre Dame university," Mrs. Ponio replied.

"She turned my home into a beer flat and ruined my reputation as an attorney," said Ponio, who has practiced law here for 30 years. "She made $4500 last summer at our summer place on Fox Lake."

Why Doctor Reynolds Insists on Milk of Magnesia in Tablet Form

The Doctor's Verdict.
"Yes, Lacta-Ma Waters. I always insist on my patients using Lacta-Ma when the need of a Milk of Magnesia is indicated. Liquid magnesia precipitates while Lacta-Ma gives assurance of accurate dosages and is pleasant and easy to take."

Again science has triumphed and today the medical and dental professions are prescribing Lacta-Ma Waters.

Children Love Lacta-Ma.
Children who fight against taking unpalatable liquid magnesia actually crave Lacta-Ma Waters, because they taste like candy.

Lacta-Ma Waters Economical.
Lacta-Ma Waters keep perfectly under all conditions. You get more for your money as there are 100 teaspoonful in each package. No danger of freezing or precipitating.

Lacta-Ma Waters Convenient.
Lacta-Ma comes in an attractive package which, due to Lacta-Ma being concentrated, can be carried in your vest pocket. Remember it is not necessary to add water to Lacta-Ma—of course you can if you wish—but Lacta-Ma will dissolve quickly if just placed upon the tongue.

Use Lacta-Ma Regularly.
All admit that milk of magnesia should be used for various uses—correct acidity, for bad breath, a gently laxative, cleaning the teeth—and all the various uses for which milk of magnesia has been found so desirable.

Go to your druggist today and ask for a package of Lacta-Ma Waters. They cost but a few cents. Start using Lacta-Ma Waters and you will never go back to the old methods.

Virginia To Probe Drinking In Schools

Investigators Will Not Be Snoopers Or Spies Says Attorney General

International News Service

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 1.—Attorney General John R. Saunders has declared there will be no snooping or hiring of student spies to probe allegations of drinking in the state schools.

He intimated, however, that this does not mean that investigation of the charges will not be thoroughly investigated.

"Reports that the prohibition force intends to do a lot of spectacular sleuthing within the colleges of the state is absurd," the attorney general said.

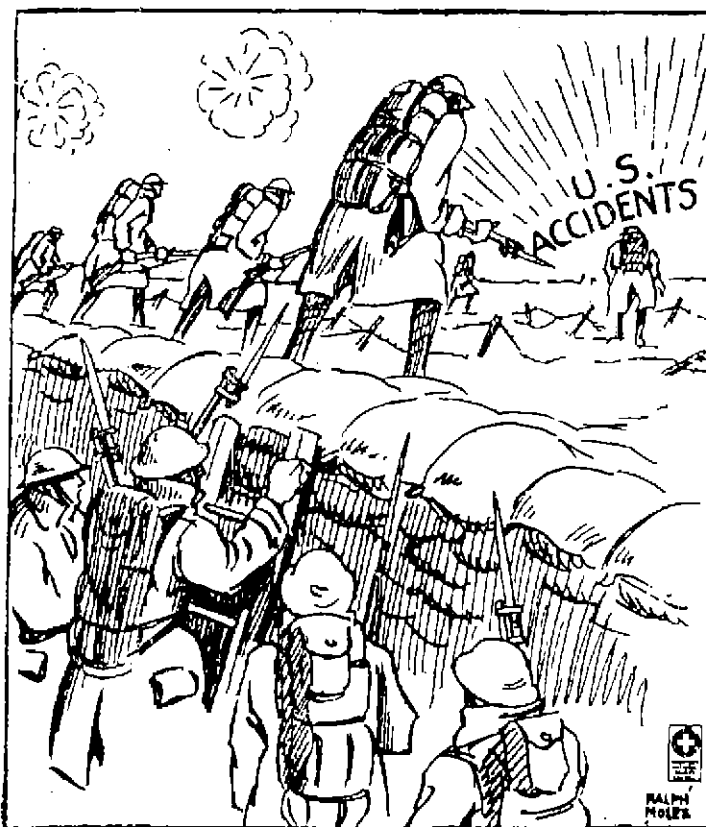

"Governor Byrd's request to investigate rumors of bootlegging and drinking in the schools will be carried out to the letter, but naturally an investigation of the nature cannot be performed without considerable thought. The matter is now being studied carefully as a preliminary step."

Eleven thousand active posts will heed the call, representing three-quarters of a million men, formulating and carrying out a definite educational safety first program, along the lines already enforced by the National Safety Council and other national organizations.

Sixty Pennsy Men To Attend Banquet Event

Will Go To Pittsburgh For Affair On Evening Of February 9

Sixty or more local employees of the Pennsylvania railroad will attend the company's eighth annual banquet of transportation department employees which will be held in the ballroom of the William Penn hotel, Pittsburgh, on February 9.

According to an announcement from a special car will carry the members of the local delegation to and from Pittsburgh on that night.

At first it was believed that speakers for the evening would include Arthur Brisbane, noted columnist, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. However, it is now evident other arrangements will likely prevent their attendance at the affair. Congressman John Cooper of Ashland, O., will make one of the addresses, it is known. Cooper was once a locomotive engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad.

British Fire Losses

Up $8,000,000 In '28

(International News Service) LONDON, Feb. 1.—Despite improved methods of fire-fighting and prevention, damage by fire in the British Isles increased by nearly $8,000,000 in 1928.

During 1927 the fire loss was nearly $55,000,000. In 1927 there was a decrease of nearly $5,000,000.

The 1928 increase was due to an unusually large number of huge fires at business premises in London and other cities.

Planes During 1928 Carry About 1750 Tons Of Letters; Big Increase (International News Service) CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Air mail planes in 1928 carried approximately 1750 tons of letters, an increase of more than 1,000 tons over the previous year, according to the figures compiled here by the American Air Transport Association.

Additional routes, improved service and the reduced air mail rates, which became effective August 1, 1928, were held responsible for the increase, as well as the ever mounting interest in aviation.

The survey of the air transport association showed that 1,449,346 pounds of mail were handled by plane in 1927 and 3,340,318 pounds in 1928. Of the 1928 poundage, 65 per cent was handled after August 1, the association estimated.

The association's figures showed that the greatest volume of mail handled in any month in the ten-year period of air mail was moved in December, 1928, when the mail planes carried 268 tons to 108 cities and towns.

Rentz Reports Greeting Many Local People In Warm Southern State

Telling of meeting a large number of New Castle people in the south, and giving other interesting facts and observations, the following letter from Fred L. Rentz, president of The News Company, who is spending some time in Miami, Florida, will be of interest to many in this city and district:

Miami, Fla., Jan. 28, 1929.

Jacob F. Rentz, Esq., Manager The News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Son:

It has been some days since I wrote you a letter that would be safe to print. We are getting along well in the heat and if we stay here long enough will be able to stand most any kind of heat.

We had a great time during the Rotary forum. It ended on Friday night with a big fish fry at the Boney Plaza hotel. Some tavern Jack Dempsey and all the guys who have real American money stay there. I have not seen Jack yet and he probably does not know I am in Miami. I have it on him as I know he is here. I am going out some night this week to his dog races. Will tell you about the races after I find out what they are myself.

We passed the house where Mr. Hoover is staying this morning. I noticed a model T. Ford on the drive. Some office seeker evidently making a call. I noticed Mr. Hoover does not go up in airplane. Planes are over his house and around him thick all the time. That's one way Mr. Hoover is like me. Mr. Hoover is keeping very quiet so the chances of seeing him are rather slim. We can always see him before election but after they are elected they are too tired to see any one. If I had been elected that time—you remember—I would not have gotten the swelled noodle and high halted voters.

I am sorer than ever for the silk stockings makers since we landed here. They are going bare legged no matter how luff the legs look. And you see them everywhere on the streets.

A chap played some half notes on a bag of pipes at the Rotary Forum and I wondered what was on the mind of the bird who invented bag pipes.

They are going to have a "Lincoln Day" Banquet here and the word has come out that "undesirable Republicans" will not be wanted at that affair. In New Castle that would all be there. They also have what is known as "Undesirable Democrats" here. The only kind of Democrats we have at home is the kind that is holding office or in favor of holding office.

We noticed out on Miami Beach yesterday that men are wearing bathing suits with just one shoulder strap over the shoulder. Well, we also noticed a lot of girls who did not even have one strap over the shoulder.

The jail here is at the top of the court house about 15 stories from the ground but they have just as heavy iron bars in the windows as there are in any jailhouse on the ground. A crook really has no show in that jail. He has a nice airy place to stay and can see the ocean as far as he wants to look.

I noticed an automobile today containing a load of tourists. Instead of having the running boards and rear and front of the bus covered with all kinds of baggage and junk an iron railing had been built all around the roof of the car about 15 inches high. The baggage was placed in this and a canvas covered the whole snear and it looked nice and neat. This is something new and not bad.

We dropped into a place called "The Round The Grill" for a modest bite and we were pleased to note that the fine dishes on the table of Ellwood City are at our hotel and have not only been here some time but are to be here for some time some. They are both getting along fine and taking in the sun baths and bathing.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley McConnell and their son Malcolm are at Miami Beach. Mrs. E. P. Norris mother of Mrs. McConnell.

On last Friday night the Imperial Potentate of the Shrine, Frank C. Jones of Houston, Texas was the guest at a big Shrine conference at the Hollywood hotel at Hollywood. Harry Ethridge, John S. Wallace, Finley McConnell and myself had the pleasure of a half hour's visit with the Imperial Potentate.

All social affairs are held out in the open here.

The hotels have raised their rates about 33 per cent since last year. This is either a sign of prosperity or a sign of needing money. The hotels on the beach and in Miami are said to be full.

All Smith came into Miami on Sunday evening. His baggage had arrived at Coral Gables before we left there Sunday afternoon. If I see him I will not high hat him. I never do that to anyone. I hear he is going to stay here some time. He may have come here to see Mr. Hoover but I do not want to be the one to start any such scandalous yarns.

Newspapers printed here are five cents per portion and I would be ashamed to be the publisher of either of them. There is seldom any news from the east in them.

The weather has been scandalously hot ever since we landed here. It is about like August in New Castle. All windows and doors are wide open and the sun comes right down straight. A ray and festive mosquito cruised around my left ear before I got up this morning. I missed him.

They evidently do not pay much attention to auto tags here. I saw many of last year's tags from Ohio and other states. I see where they are trying to get a law in Ohio to license auto drivers. If they have any kind of a state in the Union. It don't matter what kind of an auto license you have when you come here, just so you come.

I have run out of gossip. I have sat in front of the window in my room with my shirt off while writing this letter. I had my undershirt on of course.

If I see or hear anything worth writing about will send it if I have enough money left to pay for the postage.

Extend my kindest regards to all friends, especially those in politics.

Lovingly,
DAD.

DEMAND FOR AUTO STEEL REACHES BIG PROPORTIONS

The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade says: Expanding demand from the railroads, increasing pressure for automobile steel and a sharp gain in structural awards have strengthened the position of steel producers as January draws to a close.

Improvement in railroad buying is of particular interest. To a steel trade that has become accustomed in recent years to regard restricted purchase of rolling stock as a normal condition, the addition in one week of 12,000 freight cars to the pending list is impressive. Orders for 110,000 tons of rails, following the placing of 73,000 tons in the previous fortnight, are also reassuring, and it is now predicted that bookings for the current winter buying movement, although about 10 per cent smaller to date, will reach a total equalling that of a year ago.

Motor car output is still characterized by irregularity, with some builders slow in increasing their production schedules, but demand for automobile steel has reached large proportions, taxing the capacity of both sheet mills and supporting a high rate of operations among makers of strip steel and alloy steel bars. Production of flat rolled products in the Mahoning valley established a new January record.

Structural awards, at 66,000 tons, are the largest in many weeks. A Canadian refinery accounts for 23,500 tons, state bridge work in Alabama for 6,900 tons and two New York municipal projects for a total of 11,000 tons. Municipal and state work, railroad bridge construction and industrial building are counted on to offset, in part, an expected decline in investment construction.

Scrap has lost some of its buoyancy. Heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh, after eight consecutive weekly advances, has declined 50c a ton to $19.25. Prices of old material in other market centers, however, are steady or stronger and heavy melting steel at Philadelphia has gone up $1.50 to $17.50.

Finished steel prices that have been feeling competitive pressure include plates, shapes and bars and track supplies. On tie plates concessions of $1 to $3 a ton have been reported.

Price irregularities are not in keeping with the total volume of steel dealings, which for most producers exceeds that of a year ago. Steel output is holding at between 85 and 90 per cent, with no indications of declining.

Considerable pipe line business is pending and a general contract has been placed for a 100-mile gas line for the El Paso Gas Co. from New Mexico to El Paso, requiring 11,000 tons of steel. Prospects for better demand for oil country pipe have been clouded by a renewed overproduction of crude oil.

Machine tool buying is heavier than in December, and some manufacturers report January the best month in sales since 1919.

Body Never Found, But He Gets Life

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 1.—The invisible hand of a cripple, Mrs. Kate Neilson, sixty-one, has reached out to put her husband, H. C. Neilson, fifty-five, Southern Railway conductor, of Chattanooga in the State penitentiary for life, guilty of her murder about two years ago.

The main question the state Supreme Court faced in the case was whether the conviction could be upheld, since the body of Mrs. Neilson has never been found. The court has just handed down its decision upholding a conviction on the basis of the mass of circumstantial and direct evidence, together with a full statement by the defendant to a woman.

The Neilson mystery case began two years ago when the conductor sought to obtain a divorce in circuit court at Chattanooga, alleging desertion and infidelity. When Judge Oscar Yarnell advised Neilson to "find Mrs. Neilson," Neilson's relatives of the vanished woman became interested, and Neilson was shadowed by detectives for months then arrested at the end of his railroad run in Mississippi.

Neilson had been living under an assumed name with another woman in Chattanooga about the time Mrs. Neilson disappeared. It developed, and the pair fled immediately after the divorce was denied. The other woman testified Neilson brought bloodstained rags to their rooms the night after his wife's disappearance and said he cut up the body of his wife and threw the pieces into the furnace. Defense failed to establish the theory Mrs. Neilson had eloped with a childhood sweetheart.

Reviews History Of Deer Problem Under Protection

Bulletin Traces Rapid Increase Of Animals Since 1896 Legislation

FIRST SANCTUARIES
ESTABLISHED IN 1905

Rule That Killing Of Male Deer With Horns Only Was Legal Made In 1907

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—The history of the deer herd in Pennsylvania from 1896, when they were almost extinct, until their abundance made a special season for doe necessary in 1928, is discussed in detail in a bulletin now being issued by the Board of Game Commissioners.

The bulletin traces the steps taken by the Board to preserve the deer in the early years of its operation, and finally the rapid increase in recent years, which compelled adoption of methods to cut down the surplus population.

A preliminary report on examinations of forty-six doe is included in the report. The examinations were made by the bureau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture, which is continuing the work. A total of 500 will be examined and the findings compiled.

The preliminary report showed that of the forty-six examined, only three were pregnant. The preliminary findings of the bureau termed the present deer situation as one that "deserves further study," and suggested that sportsmen voluntarily make necessary investigations. An unbalanced condition of the sexes yet exists, the report said, and added that the percent of doe not reproducing fawns is apparently high.

A like study made by Dr. George M. Sutton, chief of the bureau of research of the Commission, also is included in the bulletin. Killing of doe when they become too numerous helps to strengthen the entire race, Dr. Sutton believes.

Tracing the growth of the deer herd, the bulletin said that when the Board of Game Commissioners was organized in 1896, deer were so scarce that the appearance of one caused widespread comment. The first Board appointed decided to conserve what few deer remained. The first regulatory law was passed in 1907, forbidding the use of hounds in hunting deer.

In the years that followed other conservation measures were adopted, including those which stopped market hunting and the killing of deer at fairs.

The first game sanctuaries were established in 1905, and after that deer became more plentiful. "A drastic step" was taken in 1907 when the first "buck law" was passed, the bulletin said. Digging back into its dusty files, the Board secured the evidence which showed that a protest comparable to that in 1928 regarding the killing of doe at once arose.

The thought that a hunter should be compelled to determine the sex of a deer before blazing away met with anything but approval. "The law forbidding the killing of any but a male deer with horns was passed more to protect human life than to protect deer," is a quotation made at the time by Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, the executive secretary, reproduced in the bulletin. Nevertheless, the files of the Board show that the protests were slow in subsiding, and that as late as 1913 demands for repeal of the buck law were made.

Nation-Wide Attention: By 1920 the kill of bucks in Pennsylvania was receiving nation-wide attention, and about that time protests of farmers whose crops had been damaged began to trouble the Board.

Then began moves to protect the farmers' crops. The law under which the Board furnishes wire and staples for deer-proof fences was enacted. Then came the measure which gave farmers permission to kill deer caught destroying crops. But the protests grew rather than diminished.

The first effort to control the excess doe population in particular sections was made by declaration of special seasons. This method failed to reduce the herds. One of the instances cited is the issuance of 100 licenses in two townships of Franklin county and only eight female deer killed.

The Board's plan of allowing trained deer hunters to kill large doe also raised a storm of protest from the hunters.

Protests from farmers more than kept pace with the increase of the deer. In the 1927 session of the Legislature a bill was introduced which would have set aside $100,000 of the game license money to pay crop damages.

Following hearings before committees of both houses, the Board promised to take steps which would decrease the deer population, not only because of the crop damage, but to improve conditions for those that remain.

The special season for doe deer was the outgrowth of the two decades which the bulletin covers.

Round Table Group Discusses Cases

New Problems Are Presented To Community Chest Organization

Ten organizations were represented at the meeting of the Community Chest Round Table discussion group, which took place Thursday afternoon at the headquarters of the Associated Charities, 814 East street.

New cases were discussed and duplications of effort on the part of the organization were eliminated. After the meeting tea was served.

Organizations represented are: the Y. W. C. A., the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society, the Associated Charities, the Lawrence County Poor District, the Christian Missionary Alliance, the Scioto street neighborhood house, the American Red Cross, the Pennsylvania State department of health, the Salvation Army and the American Sheet and Tin Plate company.

The next meeting will take place Thursday afternoon, February 7, at the Associated Charities headquarters.

Card of Thanks: We wish to thank the friends, neighbors and members of Typographical Union No. 270 for their kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our husband and father; also for floral tributes and cars donated. MRS. PHILIP EVANS AND FAMILY. Local 10

High Wages Needed To Keep Prosperity Rotarians Warned

Working Man Needs More Leisure Says General Motors President

(International News Service) DETROIT, Feb. 1.—If the United States is to continue prosperous, the present standard of high wages must be maintained.

This was the theme of an address by Floyd Allen, assistant to Alford P. Sloan, president of General Motors, at a Rotary Club meeting here. "We must maintain the consuming power of the people if we want to continue prosperity," Allen said. The "working man also needs greater leisure."

Allen enunciated his conception of the ultimate meaning of high wages by emphatically asserting his belief that "the highest priced man is the cheapest on the payroll while the lowest priced is the most costly." "The old idea that the first thing to do when production costs are to be lowered is to cut the pay is obsolete," Allen declared. "The automobile industry, I believe, is responsible for the exactly opposite theory that it is better to increase the payroll. This may sound like a paradox but it is not."

Allen pointed out that fair play is essential in the success of a big business—fair play to the customer, the workman and the stockholder. Marketing constitutes the greatest problem now before the automobile industry, Allen said. "We have passed the stage where production was a problem. We have the facilities now to make the cars, it is our task to build a market that can absorb the quantity we can produce."

Basketball Named Flat Feet Cause

Marine Officers Believe That Floor Game Develops Bad Arches

(International News Service) INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Basketball the major pastime of high school students of the middle west is responsible for a growing increase in broken arches or "flat feet," it was disclosed by Marine recruiting service officers.

192 recruits examined last year by Dr. E. P. Kunkel chief medical examining officer for this district 110 were rejected and a large majority of those turned down were former high school basketball players who had "flat feet" according to Dr. Kunkel.

Eighty youths all of whom had played basketball were rejected for "flat feet" by the South Bend, Ind. recruiting office according to local Marine officers.

St. Louis Air Meet Will Draw Leaders

Orville Wright To Be Guest Of City At May Convention

(International News Service) ST. LOUIS, Feb. 1.—St. Louis has been awarded the national convention of the aeronautic division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, according to an announcement made public by Victor J. Azbe, the chairman of the general committee of the convention. The meeting will last four days. It will be held May 27, 28, 29 and 30. The convention will hold its meetings in St. Louis hotels and at the various flying fields.

The general program calls for the discussion of the development of aircraft, both lighter than air and heavier than air, during the past two years. And it's our judgment that they don't get very much for their money.

Missionary From Ecuador Tells Of His Experience There

Gives Encouraging Message At Convention In Hoover
Heights Tabernacle

The Missionary convention at the Hoover Heights tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance is progressing with increasing interest. Special music was furnished last evening by Mrs. Ada Anderson and Mrs. Amy Scripture.

After a brief song service and prayer by Mr. Everett Reims of the Shaker church, Rev. C. G. Barnigh of Ecuador brought a most interesting and encouraging message. He told of the events that led him to the missionary field. Although there were many obstacles in his way along every line, God proved himself sufficient along every line, removing obstacles and opening doors till they had arrived on the field. The board was reluctant to send them because of their children, but God changed their decision. The representative of the Ecuadorian government in one place did not pass on their passport, but going to another in another place, he did without hesitation.

Rev. B. F. Armstrong brought the Bible message. His theme was "Our Part in Brings Christ Back." He stressed the importance given to the truth of Christ's Second Coming, which truth he declared was mentioned over 300 times in the New Testament.

Service this evening at 7:30.

Teachers Asked To Send Contributions

County Teachers Asked To Co-operate With Pension Fund

Clare B. Book, president of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association of the Lawrence county schools, is asking that all school principals collect the assessment for destitute former teachers, which was made at the state convention of the association in December. From the faculty members, Teachers in districts with no principal in charge should send their money to Assistant County Superintendent Charles F. Ball, who is treasurer of the local association.

A resolution was passed at the recent state convention to the effect that all former teachers who were in want and whose pensions had been stopped by various acts of the legislature, should receive aid of some sort from the educational association.

It was also resolved that 50 cents should be contributed by each and every member of the association throughout the state in order that the fund might be started which would materially aid these persons.

A careful survey, states Mr. Book, shows that there are some 200 hundred teachers in the state who have been deprived of their pensions and who are in absolute want.

The local officers of the P. S. E. A. are hoping to co-operate with the association officials and are asking that all contributions be made immediately.

"Sweetest Baby in Penn."

For over fifty years, mothers, like this well-known Pennsylvania woman have been telling each other about California Fig Syrup, and leading physicians have been endorsing it. Nothing else acts so gently and harmlessly to propel the souring waste from the delicate system of babies and children, which, when allowed to remain, keeps them cross, feverish, bilious, head-achy, weak, with coated tongue, bad breath, broken-out skin, no appetite or energy. Its rich, fruity goodness helps to give tone and strength to their little stomach and bowels so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. It helps to build up and strengthen them—makes them active and happy.

"I have used California Fig Syrup with my little daughter since early babyhood," says Mrs. Joseph Lavin, 288 South 57th St., West Philadelphia. "Wherever she has a cold, is the least bit constipated or doesn't seem just right, I always give her a little, and it fixes her up quick. She's the picture of health now, and friends say she's the sweetest baby in Pennsylvania. She has never had a serious illness, and I give California Fig Syrup full credit for it."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton bears the word "California."

During the past 10 years the number of rural schools in Mercer county have been reduced to 75. Consolidations have been the cause of the reductions.

Smaller sized families, moving from the farm to town, and the state board of education ruling on keeping open the small schools, are all factors in bringing about this change.

Delegations of high school students from the larger towns of Mercer county have been court visitors this week. Court officials claim that 200 students have already been present at the criminal sessions this week. All are interested, taking notes on which they will be questioned later.

Five thousand two hundred dog licenses have already been written at the office of the Mercer county treasurer. Dog owners are advised that after today the state agent, Harry Higber, will begin his annual round-up, arresting those who own dogs not having licenses.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—The wife of R. McConnell, 26, today was married to Kenneth B. Coulter, 23, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., the man from whom she was reported to have fled in a cross country chase by train and airplane that attracted national attention.

Mrs. Coulter became the wife of a millionaire, for her husband, although 43 years old and a cripple for 20 years, owns large dairy properties in New York and is worth more than $5,000,000.

After a day of mystery yesterday, newspapermen were informed last night that the couple had been married at the home of the bride's father, Major Henry E. McConnell, in Indianapolis. Four Indicted In Bond Ring Expose Waive On Hearings PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Charles E. Knapp, Mrs. Knapp, Bennie Diamond and Leo Gallagher, indicted in New York in connection with an alleged $10,000,000 bond theft ring, today waived a preliminary hearing before the United States commissioner.

With the exception of Knapp, all renewed their bonds for their appearance in the federal district of New York February 11.

In the meantime the identity of John Doe, named in the indictment, still remains a mystery.

The two Knapps were represented by attorneys Robert Worley and M. Lee Rattner, and Gallagher by Attorney L. P. McGrath. Diamond was not present at the time, but he and his attorney, Louis Little, sent word to Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans that Diamond consisted of diphtheria, scarlet fever, mumps, chickenpox, pneumonia and whooping cough.

TO STRENGTHEN DEFENSE AGAINST LIQUOR SMUGGLERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The first step toward reorganization of the government's war to make prohibition effective was taken today when Admiral F. C. Billard, commander of the coast guard, submitted to Secretary Mellon recommendations for strengthening that enforcement arm to meet the smuggling situation.

Admiral Billard's report providing for a five-year program of expansion of commissioned personnel of the coast guard, and for replacement of obsolete and worn-out vessels, will be studied by under secretary Ogden L. Mills, treasury budget officer, and then sent to budget director H. M..

The present plan is to send the proposals to Congress next December. The program could not be put into effect under the proposed $24,000,000 additional dry appropriation, according to Mellon.

Billard asked for 200 additional commissioned officers.

The plan, it was understood, did not contemplate immediate increase in the enlisted force, which is regarded as sufficient to meet present conditions.

Train Speeds On, Pilot Dead In Cab

BRYAN, O., Feb. 1.—A through freight train on the Cincinnati Northern traveled three miles between Bryan and the village of Ney Thursday with a dead engineer at the throttle.

Harvey A. Freyer, 56, of Van Wert, a veteran train pilot, received his orders here apparently in good health.

He threw open the throttle and the freight pulled out toward Ney, six miles away. About two miles from Bryan, Freyer died of apoplexy. But his body remained firm in his position in the cab, so much so that the fireman, L. J. Hirsch, Van Wert, was completely deceived.

Then Hirsch noted that the train passed a crossing and that Freyer did not sound the whistle. He kept on shoveling coal into the fire.

Another crossing was passed and Freyer still did not whistle. When this happened a third time, Hirsch tapped the engineer on the shoulder and his body slumped forward.

Hirsch then took the throttle himself and piloted the train into Ney. The spot where Freyer died was established by the discovery of his cap along the track, about two miles from Bryan. The train was bound for Cincinnati from Jackson, Mich.

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The 19th Psalm contains a comparison and a contrast. It celebrates, in song, the wondrous perfections of God's revelation of himself in his works and in his word. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork." With this perfect revelation of divine wisdom and power, as written in the starry pages of God's book of nature, the psalmist compares God's book of nature, the psalmist compares God's equally perfect and marvelous revelation of himself, as written in his word: "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple; The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart; the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes. . . more to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold."

The Word a Mirror.

The psalmist's glimpse into God's revelations in Nature and Scripture showed up his own imperfections in a mirror, as he saw his own faults in contrast with the perfection of God's world and word, and the tone of his song changes to: "Who can understand his errors? Cleanse thou me from secret faults." Then follows a prayer for that forgiveness which will bring him into harmony with the perfections of God's World and Word: "Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer."

The Word a Guide.

This is always the result of earnest searching of the scriptures. It reveals man's imperfections in contrast with the perfection God would have in all his works. It shows him how far he is out of tune with the harmony God desires in every sphere. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

The Bible as Literature. The best literature of the world is saturated with quotations from or allusions to the Bible. The poems of Longfellow contain over 330 Bible quotations, and those of Tennyson over 400, and the writings of Ruskin over 5,000, while those of Milton and Emerson breathe the very atmosphere of scripture. Thirty-seven of Shakespeare's plays contain scriptural references. The writings of Wordsworth, Coleridge, Dickens and Robert Louis Stevenson are so full of the Bible that they cannot be fully appreciated without a knowledge of the Bible.

The Bible in History.

No book has played a larger part in the history of the world than this book which Gladstone called that "old, old book, which is God's best and richest gift to mankind." More than any other force, it molded the early history of America from the days of the Pilgrims on.

The Bible as the Word of God.

The greatest miracle that confronts us regarding the Bible is not that of its divine inspiration out of which it has sprung, but rather the miracles it continues to work in men and nations, giving it a chance to enlighten, enrich and energize their lives. All its roads lead to Christ, and throb with his living, saving power. "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

(The International Uniform lesson for February 3 is Deut. 6:4-9, Josh. 1:8-9, II Kings 22:8-20, Neh. 8:1-3, Psalm 119:1-14, Luke 24:25-32, Acts 17:10-12, II Tim. 3:14-17, the subject being: "The Holy Scriptures" and the Golden Text, Psalm 119:18. "Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.")

(Suggested daily Bible readings for next week's worship: Monday, Jonah 3:1-10; Tuesday, Is. 1:10-17; Wednesday, Luke 15:11-24; Thursday, Heb. 11:1-5; Friday, Heb. 11:32-40; Sunday, Psalm 27:1-5.)

but it turned out to be a workout for the second and third teams. There must have been something wrong with that Detroit college team, for no team could be that bad and still have a regular coach. The score was something to something else and the score boy got cramps in his hand changing the numbers.

The substitution list looked like a couple of pages out of the telephone directory, and the referee met more players last night than he would ordinarily see in a couple of games.

Must have been something wrong. The Detroit team had beaten Penn State, and Penn State beat Colgate. Against Westminster the lads from the automobile city looked a second string team of some night school.

Coach Johnny Lawther has so many good forwards and guards up there this season that he might just as well start a league among the squad and give them all a little practice.

Last night the first team got penalized for being good. They caged so many baskets that the coach pulled them out and ran the subs in. And just to show there were no hard feelings, the subs bucketed as many as the first team did.

It was so one sided that the fans didn't do any cheering, which is unusual for a Westminster crowd. The team has to be behind before that outfit gets into action, but when they do, you can see the steel girders in the gym getting agitated.

Thanks to the highway department, the road was as clear as the middle of summer and chains were not necessary.

Stone Mountain Body Is Sued By Donors Of Site

When the six of them get out on the ice it looks like a vaudeville act. May I suggest that if they decide to enter the professional field of entertainment that the name of the act might be "The Hot Coles."

It was supposed to be considerable of a basketball game last night up at the University of New Wilmington.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—Members of the Venable family have filed suit for recovery of the deed to the site of the Confederate memorial, conventionally assigned to the Stone Mountain Monument Association 13 years ago. It is charged the association is insolvent, cannot complete the memorial and has "lost the confidence of the public."

Five Men Attend Officers' Meeting

Officers Should Know Military Science, Declares Captain Craig

NEXT MEETING WILL BE HELD THURSDAY

Five men attended the reserve officers' meeting which took place Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the office of Captain Melvin L. Craig (DOL) in the Temple building, it is stated this morning.

"Organization of the Ground" was the subject discussed by the captain, after which a map problem was worked out. Those present at the meeting were: First Lieutenant J. M. Struthers of Infantry, First Lieutenant Floyd D. Perrine of engineers, First Lieutenant Walter K. Smith of Infantry, Second Lieutenant Roland X. Baines of Infantry and First Lieutenant J. S. Richards of engineers.

"The response to last night's meeting has been more gratifying than formerly," declared Captain Craig this morning. "But still I do not believe that the reserve officers in the New Castle district realize the importance of these meetings. They do not seem to know that the science of warfare is constantly changing. Just as different tactics were used in the Civil war than were used in the Spanish-American war; just as different tactics were used in the late war, so different tactics are being used now. It behooves the reserve officers to keep themselves posted on the latest developments, so that in case their country needs them, they will be able to give the best possible service."

"This work can be done only thru unit meetings, such as the ones which are being held this winter. Yet, the attendance at those meetings has been woefully slim. Officers somehow believe that military science is a game that almost anyone can play. Such is not the case. Military science is an exact science, and the more an officer knows about it the better service he can give to his country in time of need, and the more chance he has for promotion."

The next meeting of the unit will take place next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Temple building. All reserve officers in the district are urged to attend, not only to help themselves win promotion, but also to help their country."

Salvation Army High Council In Temporary Lull

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Salvation Army high council which met here to review the new situation created by General Bramwell Booth's injunction, adjourned this afternoon without issuing any statement.

The next meeting will be held at the army training college in Sunbury-on-Thames. The injunction restrains the high council from deposing General Booth and electing his successor until he is given an opportunity to refute the allegation of unfitness.

SIX TRAINMEN DIE IN CRASH AT OWENSBORO

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 1.—Six trainmen were killed at Posey out, eight miles from here today in a head-on collision of a Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis passenger train and a Louisville & Nashville freight train bound for Evansville, Ind.

None of the passengers was reported injured.

Little Hope For Wampum Man's Life

William Young of Wampum, who was badly burned at the plant of the Koppel Car Repair Co., Koppel, when his greasy clothing became ignited from an oil torch, remains in a critical condition in the Providence hospital. There has been little change in his condition since his admission to the hospital, and slight hopes are held for his recovery.

It will be remembered that Young was working on a car in the open, when his clothing caught fire. The high wind fanned the blaze, and in a very short time the man was enveloped in flames.

President Hoover will appoint a commission to look into the liquor problem and if this includes a tasting squad there will be a lot more applicants than there are places to fill.

Prevented Wreck

Hearing a rumble that reminded him of a landslide as he lay ill in his Dyesville, O., home, Glenn Cline, 21, pulled himself from bed and investigated a nearby railroad cut to find it full of boulders and stone. Then he dragged himself down the track and flagged a fast passenger train that was approaching, in time to prevent the train from plowing into the filled cut, probably saving a hundred lives.

Father Joins Son In Battle Against Col. R. W. Stewart

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Joins Effort To Oust Stewart From Company

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Colonel Robert W. Stewart, fighting the efforts of John D. Rockefeller Jr. to depose him as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, faced a new and formidable foe today in John D. Rockefeller Sr., retired ruler of the oil kingdom.

Col. Stewart was reported to have arrived in New York today to put the finishing touches on his eastern proxy campaign, but later it was disclosed that the report was erroneous. He was still in his Chicago offices, it was said.

The 39-year-old organizer of the Standard Oil Company, who has not been active in the business world for 20 years, and who previously had indicated he had no interest in the Indiana fight, came to the support of his son in a statement issued late yesterday.

The aged magnate is wintering at Ormond Beach, Fla.

Seeks $25,000 For Death Of His Wife; Killed By Auto

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—John Sopke of Tarentum today had on file a suit for $25,000 damages in common pleas court against Thomson Campbell, alleged driver of the car which killed his wife in December along Bull Creek road between Tarentum and Bakers-town. She was struck as she was walking along the sidewalk.

Sopke who had been married 25 years, is left with four children.

NO ONE HICK CARS IN COLLISION.
Floyd V. Lertz of 229 Euclid avenue, reported Thursday that he was driving south on Highland avenue, when a car belonging to G. B. Zahniser of 1211 Highland avenue, backing out of the latter's driveway, drove into his machine. Both cars were damaged.

Shoots College Chum

Two school chums met under strange circumstances at Bartlesville, Okla., when Paul Locke, top, 19-year-old high school student, attempted to hold up Forrester Bennett, 20, below, a college freshman. In the scuffle Locke says his gun was accidentally discharged before he realized it was a former school friend with whom he was grappling. He faces a murder charge.

Near Million Loss In Fire At Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Chicago's largest fire in recent years was under control today after damage estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000 had been done.

The blaze centered in the four-story plant of the Rockcastle Engraving company, occupying nearly an entire block.

One fireman was frozen and others moved around clothed in sheets of ice. The sub-zero temperature hampered the work of the firemen.

LOUISIANA WOMAN HANGED FOR MURDER DURING AFTERNOON

boeuf and Dr. T. E. Dreher, her family physician and paramour, dangled from the gallows this afternoon until they were dead.

It was a ghastly death for the triangle love plotters, equally horrible as the end they had Jim Beedie, a trapper, now a life-terminer, put to the woman's husband, James J. Leboeuf, whose dissected and weighted body was found in Lake Palaurde, 18 months ago.

Mrs. Leboeuf cringing and moaning went first at 12:10 p. m. and 15 minutes later the trap was sprung on the doctor, who protested his innocence to the end.

Less than an hour before they both were hurled to their doom, the woman and the middle-aged country doctor who brought her four children into the world met at the former's cell for one last farewell. It lasted but a minute.

"Goodbye Ada" said the physician and pressed her hand through the bars of her cell.

"Goodbye, Tom" said the fear-shattered woman feebly, as she broke into tears.

"I hope we meet in the other world, Ada," said the doctor and returned to his cell.

FRANKLIN COURT-HOUSE, La., Feb. 1.—Ada Bonner Leboeuf, who killed her husband because she loved another, is to hang here today.

The man she loved—T. E. Dreher, a middle-aged country doctor who brought her four children into the world—will follow her to the little death room on the mezzanine floor of the parish prison.

And in this sinister chamber the clasp of a falling steel door will twice toll the knell of a drab, small town, hide-in-the-corner love affair.

Ends Notable Battle
It will also mark the end of the most bitterly contested fight for life in the criminal annals of the South-land. Mrs. Leboeuf will be the first white woman to hang in a southern state since reconstruction days.

And when the requirements of the law have thus been carried out the state of Louisiana will have balanced an account opened on the night of July 1, 1927, when at the couple's behest Jim Beedie, a trapper, emptied the contents of a shotgun into the unsuspecting husband.

Jim Beedie was the trigger-man; he also was the "sawyer". For his telling of this act and the crafty planning that brought it about, the woodsman earned the privilege of serving out his colorless life behind the stone wall of a Louisiana prison, instead of paying the supreme penalty as do his co-conspirators today.

Last Appeal Fails
Snatched four times from the very brink of the death drop, the murderers yesterday surrendered themselves to their fate when federal appellate judges at New Orleans refused to interfere with the "due process of the law" and the sentence of a lower court. This was the last possible legal resort of defense attorneys.

Governor Huey P. Long, the only man who could save the doomed pair at this late hour, has definitely stated he will not intervene.

The appeals made in an effort to forestall the sentence of the trial court have ranged from claims of a prejudiced jury to allegations of insanity. The swift-moving and dramatic developments in the case during the past few weeks have centered the interest of the country.

And today, between the hours of noon and three o'clock, the principals in the drama will drop into nothingness, there to hang for 21 minutes in accordance with the law.

The day of reckoning found the plotters cringing feebly against the certainty of their doom. Low moans and hysterical wailings emanated from their cells as an suffusion of sunlight filtered through the windows. The pair slept fitfully during the night, jail attendants said.

No Visitors Allowed
No visitors were allowed to see either of the two today except their spiritual advisers and officials. Yesterday they bade a final farewell to their children and kin, who made arrangements for their bodies to be taken home to Morgan City.

Three of Mrs. Leboeuf's children came to see their mother shortly before it was learned that her last legal hope had been dashed. They were Herman, 14; Ernest, 13; and Liberty, 10. The woman's aged mother, Mrs. Louis Bonner, also came.

Then Dr. Dreher's children came. They were Polly and Dorothy, two damsel girls still in their teens, and Ted, a sturdy lad approaching manhood.

No outsiders were present at either of these family scenes, and just what transpired no outsider knows. Jail attendants retired as the two little groups sobbed their farewells.

Mrs. Hughes the beloved wife of Dr. Hughes will accompany him to New Castle and will sing at the services next Sunday. A large crowd is expected to attend Sunday's services.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davies of New Castle from Daytona Beach, Florida, telling their friends that they have reached Florida safe after five days of auto driving. Interesting letters have been also received from David W. Williams, Riverside, and from General Tom Edwards of Palo, both of California, telling the people of New Castle that California has been honored with a large delegation from here. Some are their to stay while others for a visit. The last to arrive are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Richards of Long avenue, who are there for a visit. They have made acquaintances with Mr. Richardson and Mr. Scott and are expecting to meet their old friend Davis S. Eyle, general manager of the Sherrington Tin Plate Works when he and his party journey through the state of California. They also stated that Mr. and Mrs. William Price, formerly of New Castle have started a business in Los Angeles.

Relieved Health Troubles Of 3 Years' Standing

Lady Could Hardly Get Around Before Using Ten Herbs; Other Medicines Failed.

"I can hardly express my gratitude for the way Ten Herbs helped me," was the recent statement of Mrs. Clara Crouch, Route 1, Wampum, Pa. (near New Castle), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington street.

MRS. CLARA CROUCH

this city, where he is daily demonstrating this successful new herbal medicine to crowds of persons of all ages.

"For three years my health had been so poor that I was hardly able to get around," Mrs. Crouch continued. "I spent quite a sum of money trying to obtain relief from the pains over my entire body. My stomach was in very bad condition. Everything I ate—no matter how light or wholesome—filled me with gas, and caused me to feel bloated and very uncomfortable. Upon arising in the morning, I would cough and try to vomit for some time, and would expel mucus."

"My head would ache, and my nerves would get the best of me. I was so nervous that the slightest sound would make me jump. My liver was not working properly. I seemed to be full of bile, and as a result my skin became discolored and full of blotches. There were severe pains across my back and through my hips. I had to arise continually at night. My whole system seemed to be run-down."

"I read about Ten Herbs in the paper, and started using your medicine. Before very long I noticed a marked improvement throughout my whole system. Stomach trouble has been ended. I can enjoy a good meal without being troubled with gas or retching, and I do not bloat any more. When I awake in the morning my throat is clear and normal—no more coughing or trying to vomit. That tired feeling and sick headaches have been relieved. My nerves have been greatly improved. I sleep well at night without having to arise. Ten Herbs has improved my health so greatly that I can heartily recommend your medicine to others."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

Novel Plan Aids Younger Artists

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The Association of Berlin Artists, which exhibits in the "Kuenstlerhaus" has tried out for the first time with marked success a novel plan for aiding young artists.

The pictures exhibited bear no price-tag. Visitors can make an offer for any picture they desire, and this offer is communicated to the artist. If he is willing to sell at the figure offered the price is affixed to the picture. Until the end of the exhibition any prospective buyer can make a higher bid.

The association reports that as a result of the plan at least 50 pictures were sold that would not have been sold under the former fixed price system. Future exhibitions will be conducted along the same lines.

Police Tag At Least 832 Cars During Year

According to the yearly report of Mayor William H. Gillespie, the total number of arrests made by the police department of this city in the year 1928 was 2890. This number of arrests is far from being the record for any year, as there have been many years, during which more arrests have been made by the police.

The most frequent violation of the law mentioned in connection with this report is that of violating the parking regulations of the city, of which there was a total of 832 during the year. Drunkenness was the second most numerous offense with 549 arrests under that head. Closely behind the charge of drunkenness was that of visitors of disorderly houses, of which there were 461 recorded during the year.

Keepers of disorderly houses were quite numerous during the year, there having been 114 persons arrested and charged with that offense. Motorists who persisted in driving cars while under the influence of liquor numbered 45, a rather unusually large number of such type of offenders. Traffic violations were quite numerous, the number recorded for the year being 194. Violations of the Snyder Act were more numerous than for some time according to the police records, there being 45 persons charged with that offense on the police docket and sent to court. In addition, there were ten persons arrested and charged with transporting illicit liquor.

The totals of other violations for which people were arrested during the year were as follows: speeding 60; disorderly conduct 220; loitering 15; suspicious characters 155; violating city ordinances 6; fighting 9; inmates of disorderly house 33; carrying concealed weapons 1; begging 4; arrested on warrants 29; breaking and entering 12; robbery 9; runaway boys 7; entering house under quarantine 2; fugitive from justice 2; assault and battery 2; violating health ordinance 10; surety of the peace 1; desertion 1; driving without license 7; forgery; interfering with an officer 1; gambling 4; violating parole 1; larceny 4; permitting another to drive without a license 1; rape 1; held for sheriff out of town 1; sent to County Home 1; felonious cutting 2; shooting inside the city limits 3.

Test Tube Dinners

Prof. Predicts Age Of Synthetic Foods

(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News)

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Instead of the white-aproned chef with soup ladle, the man who eats in a restaurant on or about 1950 will find a rubber-gloved chemist with a test tube mixing his foods.

Synthetic foodstuffs, built up from elements combined by science instead of by nature, will be in common use in less than 25 years, according to Professor Charles B. Hurd of Union College, Schenectady.

Professor Hurd predicts the development of chemistry within the next few years will be unprecedented and that public health, industry and commerce will benefit greatly.

Just 100 years ago, the professor relates, the German chemist Wohler startled the world by an important discovery in organic chemistry. He started others making thousands of compounds, many of which occur as the result of life processes.

"Now it is possible," the scientist declares, "for the chemist to start with carbon or coal and water and to build up a sugar, many different ones in fact. Some would be identical with sugars made by plants. They would taste sweet and could be used for food. He might modify the procedure to obtain a fat. If he added some nitrogen to his raw materials he could get a simple, protein-like compound. These substances could be used as food, although their price at the present time would be prohibitive, as compared to the natural products."

Professor Hurd explains that agricultural or meteorological conditions may force the manufacture of synthetic foods before long.

"I am going to predict that the future will see many artificial food factories well established. I even may be rash enough to say that by 1950 some artificial food will be in common use."

"Mashed potatoes may be made in the future from synthetic starch. I am sure that the chemist will have a much better chance of producing artificial mashed potato than of producing a synthetic baked potato. He will be able to produce sugar, although not in the form of an apple or banana. The proteins will not be in the form of a lamb chop, but rather in a granular or powder form.

"Such food factories may utilize sunlight, or more probably, artificial light of a wave length found most effective for chemical reaction. It will probably be necessary to use some catalyst, such as chlorophyll, to speed up the reaction. Special highly transparent reaction chambers may be necessary for the reaction, may be run in ways new to us now."

So it all looks bad for the toothpick manufacturers after 1950.

Circulation Three Thousand Books A Month At Library

The Seventh ward branch of the Free Public Library has an average circulation of over three thousand books a month. This is putting the average circulation low for this branch.

The library is open two days each week, Monday and Thursday, hours are 12:30 until 9 p. m. Each day the library is open the number of books taken out averages about 400. This month there were four Mondays in the month and five Thursdays. Average circulation for this month was thirty-six hundred books.

Just before Christmas there was a few weeks that the circulation of each week was about a thousand books. But since the holidays the circulation has been around 800 books a week.

HAD TO WORK TOO HARD

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Gave Her Strength

Mt. Carmel, Pa.—"After my second baby was born I had to work too hard and I felt too soon because my husband was ill. After his death I was in such a weakened and run-down condition that nothing seemed to help me. I am starting the fourth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel a great deal better. I am much stronger and don't get so tired out when I wash or work hard. I do housekeeping and dressmaking and I highly recommend the Vegetable Compound. Simple Remedy for a Widespread Evil!

Many a man has suddenly realized that he was losing out—all because he neglected constipation too long. This evil scourge starts with such little things. A headache. A listless morning. A cloudy complexion.

But all the while it saps strength, kills initiative, steals ambition. And if allowed to continue to poison the system, it may bring on serious disease. Women know it as the deadly enemy of youth and beauty. Men, as ability's cruellest foe.

Don't let it ever prey on you. Guard against it. You can—with a delicious cereal. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent constipation—to promptly relieve it. Just eat two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Serve with milk or cream. Use in cooking—muffins, breads, etc. Delicious recipes on package. Grocers sell it. Restaurants, hotels, dining cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

to desire promotion. Uncles are all well. John starts in a day or two so as to meet the recruits in Washington. I have heard from Gordy. He is well and he and George are missing together.

I will write from Washington.
DANIEL LEASURE

Pleasant Valley, Md.
October 12, 1862

I arrived safely here yesterday morning. I left Washington on Friday evening (this is Sabbath) and started for Harper's Ferry, but at the Frederick Junction I met John G. Grace of Company G, who told me that the regiment lay a mile from Knoxville, five miles on this side of the Ferry. I arrived in Knoxville at midnight and sat on the porch till morning, when Gordy, dear boy, came for me. He is looking well. They are very gay in camp (over the return of the colonel, you may be sure). General Burnside immediately detailed me with one commissioned officer from each brigade and a sergeant from each regiment to proceed to Alexandria to bring up all the stragglers, recruits and wounded men for duty for the whole corps. I start tomorrow morning. It will take me a week, perhaps less.

Col. Welch intended to detail Gordy to go with me but just before the order came in written for Welch's brigade and Panton's received marching orders for Frederick to protect the hospital there until Stewart's raid to Pennsylvania was over, and off they went. Gary just started to General McClelland's headquarters to telegraph after them to send their details to meet me. I do not know whether Gordy will go with me or not as he is with the regiment.

The regiment has not been paid off yet so I have to divide my money with Gordy. I cannot get paid off for September and October until next month.

Write as usual to Washington and I will stop the letters while I remain here and afterwards the letters will follow me and the regiment. My leg gives me no uneasiness now and my general health is good. I haste for the mail goes in a minute.

Col. Panton has gotten back and has assumed command of the First brigade, Col. Christ the Second, and Col. Welch the third. We are in the latter. Col. Welch wants to detail me to his staff, but I would rather be in the machine in working order again. Everything has been turned upside-down since you left.

We now report 312 privates for duty. We have a new assistant surgeon, vice Rossits, promoted. The latter is in Washington. The new surgeon's name is Mass and I do not know whether he is any relation to Blue Mass or not, but you would have thought he was when I overtook him on the road, hurrying for the 100th regiment. Mr. Brown intends writing you today and can give you a detailed account of matters since you left.

Lieutenant Colonel Lecky has made some promotions since you left. He has made Lieutenant Pentecost captain of Company A, and Second Sergeant Montford first lieutenant over Ocher and the orderly sergeant. This Montford is the sergeant I was telling you about acting so coolly in the light of Friday. The company elected him unanimously. Lieutenant Panton has been made first lieutenant, vice McCready deceased and Sergeant Robert Adler second lieutenant, vice Panton promoted. He would like to make some more but does not care to attempt it. Bob still has charge of the wagons. All the officers have something in them, and you may know that Bob never swears at them. I have not time to write you any more. I am going to take John and the mule with me when I go. He has been with the wagon since we left. When we stop again I will write you.

GEORGE LEASURE

Philadelphia
October 2, 1862
I am well and start tonight at eleven o'clock for Washington. Dr. Gross gave me a certificate to exempt me for 15 days from being ordered to duty but I shall probably go into the regiment immediately. I think it needs me. I saw Forney and he went into my affairs very earnestly. Col. Welch and Col. Christ are both applicants for the brigadiership and are recommended by Burnside.

My absence from the command gave them an opportunity to push their claims, but no matter. If I were permitted only to command my own regiment I would be too well satisfied.

Cars Collide On South Side

Driver Of Wrecked Car Flees
Scene After Accident Occurs

Police received a call Thursday to the effect that a bad accident had occurred at South Jefferson street and Terrace avenue. Officers Lockard and Dukes answered the call and found that the driver of the machine which appeared to be at fault in the accident, had run away, after having his machine badly wrecked on a telephone pole.

After some investigation they found that Raymond Cunningham of New Castle R. D. No. 4, had been driving his brother's machine, Pennsylvania license 951-116 north on South Jefferson street at Terrace avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 683-962 going west on Terrace avenue, crashed into his machine and then crashed into a telephone pole, wrecking his car. The driver of 683-962 then ran away. This car was taken to a garage. The Cunningham machine was also damaged to the extent of $100 and had to be towed away.

Eloping Youngsters Nabbed In New York

West Homestead, Pa., Couple Decide To Wed, Leaves Suicide Note, Police On Job

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The West Homestead, Pa., youth took the girl and his dad's revolver, left a suicide note, and came to New York to find adventure. Instead, he found a couple of detectives who couldn't see any romance in the situation. They took his girl away from him and put him in the lineup at police headquarters.

Billy Thomas was born eighteen years ago in West Homestead. His parents still live there. Billy fell in love with Mary Colender, who is only 16. When they decided to elope Billy left his coat and hat on a bridge in West Homestead. Besides them, he carefully placed a note which read "Dear dad and mother goodbye. I'm going to shoot myself."

That was nearly two weeks ago. The senior Thomas knew that when a man shoots himself, he doesn't park his clothes on a bridge. That is customary only in drowning. And besides, Mary had disappeared. So the police were notified. In this city Billy had found a room for Mary. He went to live at the Colonial Hotel. Detectives found Mary. Billy was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law and Mary was sent to the Florence Crittenden home. They told the detectives they had tried "All over New Jersey" to find a clergyman to marry them.

OPPOSITION TO CRUISER BILL DISAPPEARING

(Continued From Page One) 636,820 tons, while that of the United States was but 525,863 tons. He further started it by announcing that under the terms of the Washington disarmament conference the American commissioners agreed to this British superiority, instead of the 5-5-3 ratio published to the world.

On Different Bases
The Missouriian revealed that the inequality came through the fact that the British computed ship tonnage on a different basis than did the American naval experts. The difference amounted to 20 per cent in favor of the British, and yet both sides were allowed to compute their own tonnage. As a result, Reed said, a British ship listed at 19,000 tons was actually the equal in tonnage to an American ship listed at 12,000 tons and that this advantage was given the British all down the line.

The opposition, led thus far by Senators Brookhart (R.) of Iowa and Nye (R.) of North Dakota, centered its activity on attacking the bill as wasteful. Both declared the cruisers, now proposed, would be obsolete before launched and that the money involved would give far greater protection if spent on airplanes and submarines. Both regarded the cruiser program as an incentive to war rather than a deterrent.

A vote probably will be reached late Monday when debate is limited under an agreement entered a few days ago. In the meantime the debate will continue except for periods given over to consideration of the important appropriation bills.

The Kellogg pact is signed but we haven't received any report that either the Britons or the Japs are preparing to scuttle their cruisers.

Ancient Lizard Is Discovered At Kane

Lizard Found Imbedded In Rock
Five Feet Underground,
Lives But Short
While

(International News Service) KANE, Pa., Feb. 1.—The famed tomb of Texas which was said to have been found alive after being encased in a rock for thousands of years is believed to be revealed today by a discovery made by a grave digger at Smithport, near here.

A peculiar animal resembling a lizard, eight and one-fourth inches in length, was found in a rock crevice five feet below ground by the grave digger. At least three feet of slate stone formation surrounded the rock in which it was found. The grave digger said that there was no water or moisture in the rock formation, the ground never having been disturbed, except for a grave located several feet from the place where the animal was found.

The old excavation was made seven years ago. The animal was dormant when found but exposure to rays of the sun made it active—so active in fact that it escaped from a cigar box in which it was placed and took refuge in a pile of boards. Men hunting for it dislodged one board which is believed to have caused its death. The animal will be sent to Pennsylvania State college for examination.

The Story Of American Industry
Slater's Enterprise In New England

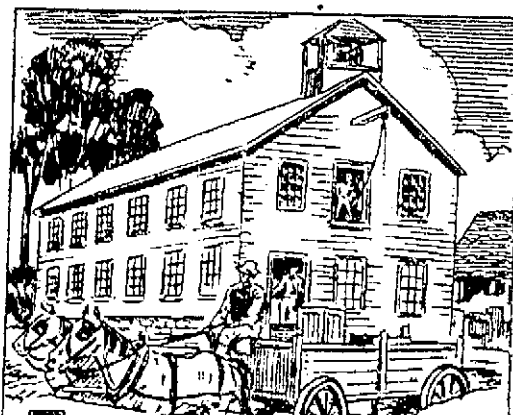

IN SPITE OF THE ATTEMPTS OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO GUARD THE PLANS OF THE ENGLISH TEXTILE MACHINES AND SO HOLD THE MONOPOLY OF THAT INDUSTRY, THE INFORMATION SHE SOUGHT TO KEEP SECRET WAS CARRIED TO AMERICA. IN 1789 A MAN NAMED SAMUEL SLATER, WHO HAD ACQUIRED A THOROUGH KNOWLEDGE OF THE ENGLISH COTTON SPINNING MACHINERY, SECRETLY BOARDED A SHIP BOUND FOR NEW YORK.

LATER THEN ONLY TWENTY-ONE YEARS OLD, KNEW THAT A FORTUNE AWAITED THE MAN WHO WOULD INTRODUCE THE NEW MACHINERY INTO THE UNITED STATES. NOT LONG AFTER HE ARRIVED IN THIS COUNTRY, HE FOUND A FINANCIAL BACKER IN MOSES BROWN, A WEALTHY NEW ENGLAND QUAKER, MERCHANT AND PHILANTHROPIST.

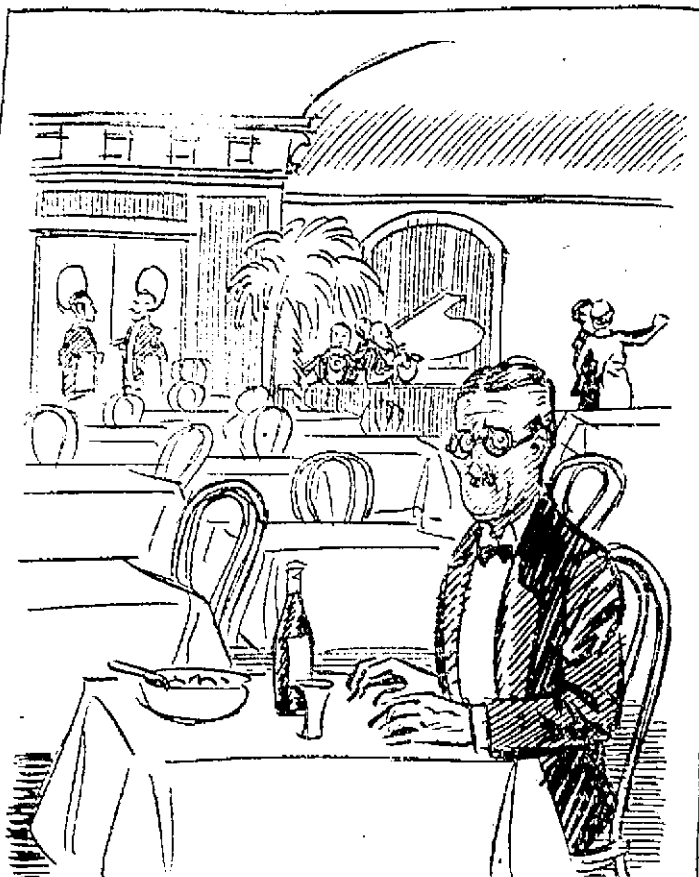

IN 1790 SLATER OPENED A FACTORY IN PAWTUCKET, RHODE ISLAND. HE HAD COME TO AMERICA WITHOUT PLANS OF THE ENGLISH MACHINES, BUT HE ACCOMPLISHED THE REMARKABLE FEAT OF DUPLICATING ARKWRIGHT'S SPINNERS AND CARDERS FROM MEMORY!

SLATER'S SPINNING MILL WAS A SUCCESS FROM THE START. SLATER ESTABLISHED MILLS AT OTHER PLACES IN NEW ENGLAND AND, IN 1812, FOUNDED THE MILL TOWN OF WEBSTER, MASSACHUSETTS. THE YARN SPUN IN SLATER'S MILLS WAS WOVEN INTO CLOTH IN THE HOMES ON HAND LOOMS.

New Castle To Play Ellwood Here Tonight

Visitors Will Have Fast Team

New Castle High School Basketball Team Meets Ellwood City At Senior High

GIRLS TO PLAY IN PRELIMINARY

By "BUGS" WALTHER
COMPLETELY wrecked since their last appearance on the "home court", the New Castle High school basketball team will try conclusions with Ellwood City High at Senior High gym this evening. The New Castle High and Ellwood City girls will play the preliminary game. The first game will start at 7:15 o'clock.

Graduation, illness, injuries, scholastic difficulties and other matters have combined to completely demoralize the red and black passers. Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh is wracking his brain today. What kind of a line-up will face the Ellwoodians to-night?

Two years ago New Castle rode to the heights of western Pennsylvania scholastic basketball circles by winning the championship at the Pitt stadium. On that team was Reider, Johnson, McGrath, Ostrosky, Sillman, Franklin, Kufsch, Thomas and Richards. The locals that year went to State College and were eliminated by Sharon, remember? Well, tonight the New Castle High takes the court this team and also the very good team of 1927-28 will be "just a memory". Captain Tony Ostrosky will be out there on the hardwood plugging away, but his mate's will be newcomers. Ostrosky is the last of the "old guard".

Sillman and Johnson were graduated last Friday. Cuba is recovering from a nervous breakdown and Alexander has quit school.

Coach Bridenbaugh finds himself stripped of all his fine material. The situation, basketballistically speaking, is not so rosy. The retooling process has started. Bridenbaugh has begun to build under a passer crew. How will the youngsters perform to-night?

A few years ago New Castle ruled the district in basketball—that is, not in the true sense of the word ruled, but held a prominent place among the best of them, but "Father Time" has played heavy with the locals, and now it's time to start all over again. Who knows but what some unknown "find" will come forth to save the day, some player kept smothered under blankets and sweaters on the bench, who has been absorbing a lot of basketball and who is now ready to parade his wares before the eyes of the floor fans.

Will Experiment
Bridenbaugh will probably do a lot of experimenting tonight. There is still plenty of material on hand at Senior High. The situation is not altogether hopeless. McAulay, Hannon, Vago, Art Alexander, Penati, McIntosh, Gleason, Weir and several others hope to carry the burden.

Coach Peck Lee will bring a strong team to New Castle tonight. The Ellwoodians are now fighting for the lead in Section III and are conceded an excellent chance of gaining the top. At Ellwood City recently the blue and white jerseyed tossers made life miserable for New Castle by that 16 to 12 licking. Ellwood City is just as determined tonight. Coach Lee has the players primed for a top-notch contest here.

Ellwood City Good
If Ellwood plays the same brand of basketball tonight that they did at the Lincoln gym not so many weeks ago New Castle is going to have to step out and keep going. In Friedhoff and King Ellwood City has a pair of forwards who rank with the best in this section of the state, and Ursu at center, while only a "rookie" is clever. Justine and Dunn are two veteran guards and made things interesting for New Castle in the first meeting of the year. It will be a good experienced team against a lot of "recruits" tonight.

Ellwood recently handed Beaver Falls High a setback. The valley team is considered good, and they have hopes of a basketball championship at Beaver Falls, but Ellwood City and New Brighton sort of put a crimp in the proceedings. The fans tonight will see one of the best teams in Section III on the Senior High floor. The championship fight seems to simmer down to Butler, New Brighton and Ellwood City.

New Castle handed New Brighton a defeat here, but Butler beat the locals. In fact, this Butler team has beaten the best of them, all but Beaver Falls, and the Rockathorne crew took a victory at Butler, 22 to 18.

Don't think for one minute that the game tonight at Senior High is not going to be worth seeing. Just stop and think of former New Castle Ellwood City games and you will draw a quick conclusion. New Castle, with a badly cracked up team, will be out there tonight trying to shake off that "jinx".

Girls in Preliminary
Coach Ruth Boyd has her New Castle High girls' team ready for their battle tonight with the Ellwood City lassies. The locals defeated the blue and white maidens at Ellwood recently by a score of 45 to 9.

Miss "Sally" McGoun, coach of the Ellwood team, has given the girls plenty of rehearsing this week in preparation for the game this evening. Miss McGoun is bringing a team to her "home town". She wants to make a creditable showing. Give Miss McGoun a hand tonight. She deserves it. The writer can remember the time when the sandy-haired young lady was flipping them through the hoops regularly for New Castle, and she left New Castle High ranked with the best girl basketball players ever to graduate. "Sally" could play the game, all right, and her teams show it.

Steir Is Fine Player
Captain Mary Ellen Steir will lead a determined group of Ellwood girls here tonight, and if the players on the Ellwood team would copy the fighting spirit of their captain, Ellwood would be hard to beat.

Miss Steir had to leave the New Castle Ellwood game recently via the four floors route and the play of the blue and white lassies was not quite as good with their scrappy leader out of the game. Miss Steir is perhaps one of the best side-centers that Ellwood City has had for many years. Miss Isabel Craig will have the assignment of watching Mary Ellen tonight and the battle should be a lively one.

Ellwood City will have to keep an eye on Patton and Patton tonight, the "poison twins" of the red and black team. There have been few games this year that the famous pair has not failed to score at least five baskets apiece. Hill and Cowmeadow are a couple of very good defensive players and have aided in the success of the New Castle girls' team to date. Miss Laura Carson at center is a tower of strength.

The basketball dish to be served tonight at Senior High is a good one. Very tasty and all that. There should be a big crowd turn out. Ellwood City always draws well here. Ralph H. Gardner invites the fans to test the new bleacher seats. The first game is at 7:15 o'clock.

Start Rebuilding
Coach Bridenbaugh finds himself stripped of all his fine material. The situation, basketballistically speaking, is not so rosy. The retooling process has started. Bridenbaugh has begun to build under a passer crew. How will the youngsters perform to-night?

Dick Evans Matched To Box Firpo Here

Evans And Firpo Come To Agreement And Morsel Which Fistic Appetite Has Yearned For Will Be Staged February 11; Romeo Offered Another Bout With Dugan; Natural Match To Draw Like Magnet

By ED FRITZ

Fans set your teeth, be they original or otherwise, for the Fistic Morsel of the Bow!

Yes, Steve, the 10-round bout at 158 pounds was arranged Wednesday and they'll clash here February 11.

It was quite a problem to overcome the difficulties which confronted the match.

1—Evans wanted to fight Firpo at 160.

2—Firpo didn't want to box Evans at 158.

3—Some hard words spoken last night during the past six months were taken seriously.

4—The monetary reward asked by the middleweights is the biggest ever requested of Bill Jolly.

Sir Bill was in a quandary.

He wanted the bout but didn't think it could be put over. But he pulled the throttle and the bow! machinery started to grind.

Evans was adamant. He wanted to fight at 160. Firpo, who really is strong at 150 and like a bull at 155, didn't like even 158.

A few honeyed words with a compliment tossed here and there, a lavish display of articles of agreement changed their moods.

"It is worth more than the usual percentage paid," said Evans.

"I sure is Dick," mused his manager, Ted Kline.

"How much do you ask?" was the query.

And then came the blow that sent Bill Jolly reeling like a Dugan knocked down by Pacelli.

A dash of cold water revived Bill. He felt for his pocketbook in an inside pocket.

Fans Want It
Out came his wallet. It was safe. He next felt his heart. It was doing a Gertie Hoffman.

"How about it?" asked Bill.

"The fans want the fight, Bill," he replied.

"All right, you get it," he declared to Kline.

"How about the weight?" Kline was asked.

"Tell Firpo we will make 158 pounds and beat him like a trap drummer," replied Evans.

A-hem: two hours later came the voice of Jimmie Dunn drifting over the long distance telephone.

"How about February 11? Is he to fight?"

"He sure can if he fights Evans," was the reply.

"E-v-a-n-s?" shouted Dunn.

"Yes, E-v-a-n-s!" was the shouted reply.

There was a silence, then a query: "How much?"

"Same as Evans," was the reply.

"And the weight?" gasped Dunn.

"One fifty-eight" was the reply.

"Oh, well, I see you 'birds' are determined to give Firpo the hardest you can get but we'll fool you. The fight 'IS ON'!" shouted Dunn, who banged the receiver and raced for whence we do not know.

So the big fight, the one shot the fans HAVE DEMANDED FOR A YEAR will be staged Monday, February 11.

It's going to be a costly fight, a grim battle and there'll be real rivalry.

Firpo has a big following here. So has Evans. The fans of Youngstown and elsewhere will certainly eye this bout. It's a natural without whiskers.

Talking about your Madison Square battles for these big top prices, it looks as though the bowl will be the scene of another rip-roarin' bout filled with thrills.

Every Word Fulfilled
The promise of the bowl was STAGED on the last contest. Every word said in advance was carried out. WILL BE CARRIED OUT again.

The only thing that can PACK THE BOWL is a GOOD FIGHT.

If Romeo Pacelli wants to tangle with the busy Mickie Dugan he can do it again but the weight must be 127 or 128, according to Dugan's mentors.

Dugan, so they say is a little fellow. But that doesn't mean so much in this case as he has oodles of experience on Romeo and is Dunn's oldest fighter, in point of ring experience.

Mickie got clipped on the chin, went to a knee, got up, was floored twice again and some say that the count was long and that Romeo deserved a knockout.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED FRITZ

Ed Barrow of the New York Yankees today stated that Babe Ruth is enroute to St. Petersburg training grounds.

Mickie Solomon will not box here February 11, according to announcement today. An opponent had been picked for Mickie and when he was telephoned Solomon replied he had accepted a bout at East Liverpool for that date. He will fight Jack Ungio, a wild swinger.

Glenna Collett national women's golf champion was given a hard workout yesterday at Pinehurst in the second women's mid-south open but finally won from Mrs. J. D. Chapman of Greenwich, Conn. 2 and 1.

Paavo Nurmi ran through a field of 12 lesser known runners last night at Newark, N. J. to capture a special two mile handicap in 9 minutes 35 seconds. It was his third victory in as many races since his arrival here recently. Among those pitted against him were Bayley, Totten and Lerner.

Freddie Linstrom has sent his signed contract to the New York Giants which settles rumors that the third man would hold out for a revision of his salary.

Lester Bell is a fine hall player and will remain with the Braves according to the Braves management. Ever since Hornsby went to the Cubs and Dugan was claimed by the Yankees by the waiver route it had been expected some deal would be made for Bell a third baseman.

A party of tourists who left New York in 1918, are still traveling around the world. Eventually they expect to find a place to park.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—A coun-

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of here will be adopted for the national campaign, Dactz said.

Curbing Evil.
The most successful methods of curbing the loan shark evil, Maddox said, are:

1. Stringent legislation and its enforcement.
2. Encouragement of the credit union idea.
3. Legal aid to the victims of loan sharks.
4. Co-operation of banks through the creating of credit facilities for the small borrowers.

"We have decreased the number of loan sharks in Atlanta from 100 to 30," Maddox said, "and we're not through yet. Our banks have helped a lot in the fight."

"Loan Departments
Some of them have organized small loan departments. They don't make any money on such departments, but they do render a public service and they start people to saving, and some of them later become valuable patrons."

"We also have encouraged wage earners to organize credit unions and they have helped a lot."

The legal battle for victims are fought in co-operation with the Legal Aid Society, Maddox said.

The next annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at Flint, Mich., in June.

tion of strawberries according to figures compiled by the Missouri university college of agriculture. Most of the crop is produced in the Ozark section of the state. The college reported the value of Missouri's 1928 strawberry crop as $3,812,300.

Caught in a Draft

BY QUIN HALL

As usual, when the baseball season opens this year the fans of the country are going to see a lot of players who have been shunted off to the minors after a shot in the big leagues, trying to whittle their way back into the mammoth show.

One of the comical angles of baseball is the fact that some ball club will pay a lot of coin for a particular player who comes up surrounded with a blanket of publicity, only to be lost track of in spring training and shipped back to the minors, where he does his best to hammer himself back into the limelight for a second chance. Quite often his first trip up has been a failure because of the fact that he has not been given a proper chance to prove his worth, and just as often he makes good on his second appearance.

Hal Rhyne, of the San Francisco club, who has been drafted by the Athletics, is one of those fellows who is coming back for another shot in fast company this spring. In the fall of 1925 Pittsburgh paid $80,000 to Prisco for Rhyne and Paul Warner.
Hal never had a chance to show his real skill as an infielder with the Pirates, as he could not compete with players like Traynor, Grantham and Wright. Last year, however, Rhyne was one of the stars in the Coast League and hit .314, illness having put him out of commission a year ago, and Donnie Bush having sent him back to the coast.

Mike Cengros, a twirler who was formerly a big leaguer and who worked at Wichita Falls last year with a record of twenty victories and eight defeats, has been "selected" by the Chicago Cubs. Mike will be remembered by many of the fans as the left-handed flinger who used to pitch for the White Sox, the Giants and the Pirates.

The Braves, who are favored by many as the winners in the National League this year, also drafted a catcher, Tom Angley, from Atlanta.
Angley is the chap who caught for the Georgia Tech team before he turned professional and was considered the best all-around college ball player in the South. Last season Tom had a great year behind the plate and batted .328 against all sorts of pitching.

A couple of Connie Mack's cast-offs have been drafted by the Detroit Tigers. Dudley Branon was grabbed from the Louisville club in the American Association and Frank Sigafos from Portland in the Coast League.
Branon is the first sacker bought by Mack from Kansas City for $50,000 more than a year ago. At that time Dudley didn't show strong against A.
L. pitching and he was traded back to K. C. for Joe Hauser. Last year he played a bang-up game at the initial corner and hit .307. Scouts recommended Sigafos to Bucky Harris on his record with Portland last year and the former Senator pilot is said to be enthusiastic over the youngster's possibilities.

Cincinnati drafted four players, among them Rube Lutzke, who played third base for Newark in the International League. Not so long ago Rube cost the Cleveland club $30,000, but he never came up to expectations and was sent to Newark. Another of the Reds' draftees is Leo Dixon, who cost the Browns $25,000 three years ago when he was brought from the Milwaukee club. Last year they traded him to the Baltimore Orioles with a stack of chips for pitcher John Ogden. Carrigan, of the Red Sox, feels he drafted two prize packages in Bobbie Barrett, Buffalo, and Jerry Standaert, Memphis. Both of these fellows were with Brooklyn in 1927, but it was said they failed to come up to major league specifications.

That's just a sprinkling of the old facs to be seen back in major league company this summer. Almost every club has speared some fellows who are trying for another shot at the fast company, and maybe a lot of them will make good. Who knows?

cate, Inc.

Hoover Planning To Address Educators

Accepts Invitation To Speak To National Education Convention In July

ATLANTA, Feb. 1.—President-elect Herbert Hoover has tentatively accepted an invitation to deliver an address at the annual convention of the National Education association to be held here June 30 to July 4 inclusive according to an announcement by Kyle T. Allfriend secretary of the Georgia Education association.

The president-elect has assured the secretary that he will speak here
"if he can arrange to get away from Washington at that time," Allfriend said.

Meanwhile preparations for the entertainment of 15,000 delegates and educational workers expected to be here for the annual conference are under way.

The program will be climaxed July 4 by a gigantic celebration. An old-fashioned watermelon cutting is planned for the last afternoon.

Bonds Defeated, Pa. Paying Way On Cash Basis

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Pennsylvania voters having gone emphatically on record as being opposed to the bond issue method of financing state work, officers are busy balancing budgets to permit paying for such projects out of current revenue.

At the last election the voters disproved five separate proposals to increase the bonded indebtedness of the commonwealth to a total of $138,000,000.
Two of the major issues were $50,000,- 000 for road building and a like amount for new construction at state penal and correctional institutions.

Two previous bond issues for roads were approved and the money has been spent.

Agitation for the five issues recently defeated began at a time when the commonwealth was unable to meet many of its current bills and when a treasury balance was unknown.

As the treasury balance increased opposition to more bond issues kept pace. State Treasurer Samuel S.
Lewis was the first to come openly against them. He pointed to balances between $20,000,000 and $35,000,000 in the general fund each month. Finally all administration support was withdrawn and each of the issues was de-feared.

To prevent curtailment of proposed work which the bond issues would have made possible and resultant alienation of the groups interested a budget plan is being worked out which will permit all necessary projects to continue at a slightly slower pace but on an entirely pay-as-you-go basis.

Allegheny's Fast Team Next Westminster Foe

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 1.—
Coach John Lawther's Westminster college basketball team is punting practice sessions toward but one objective—the Allegheny game to be played here Monday night. The United Freshyrians have not forgotten the close call at Meadville three weeks ago when the Methodists came within two points of winning. Since that time, Coach "Dick"
Baker's crew has defeated both Grove
City and Wash-Jeff.

Last year Westminster had things its own way against the Methodists, winning both games in easy fashion.
Fans believe that Allegheny will retaliate this year by dividing the series. At all events, with Captain "Granny" Balr back in the lineup, the Meadville five will be a dangerous one.

In Garback and Berger, two Freshman football stars, Baker has two of the outstanding guards of the district. These men, in addition to being good at holding down the opposing players, are sure shots. They average three and four baskets each in every game. On the other hand, if England Fears Flu Epidemic From U. S.

Thousands Of Cases Throughout Country Reported By Doctors

(International News Service)

LONDON, Feb. 1. — British doctors fear that the recent influenza epidemic in the United States has spread to Britain. Already there are thousands of cases throughout the country, although it has only taken a mild form—head colds, accompanied by slight dizziness and called "staggers" flu, but doctors are alarmed because the great epidemic of 1918 which caused so many deaths, originated in America before it spread eastwards to Europe. Many physicians are specially warning their patients to avoid crowded places and get plenty of open-air exercise.
